Platform Writers Hoping to Avoid Big Ruckus on Civil Rights Plank

Indications Are Democrats Have Many Subjects They Wish to Shy Away From

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — Democratic platform writers were expected today to keep hands off the sizzling controversy in Congress and elsewhere over the Supreme Court's legislative reapportionment decision.

A key official of the platform committee, which is at work in the Democratic national convention city, said privately he thinks it would be a mistake to try to butt in on an issue on which the Senate and the House already are at loggerheads.

Some committee members, however, were strongly urging a stand in support of the court's ruling that seats in both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned on the basis of population, but they appeared to be outnumbered by those in favor of skipping a plank on this subject.

Party Harmony

There also were indications that, in the interest of party harmony, the committee may refrain from:

—Naming any organizations in a plank denouncing extremism; —Involving itself in the dispute over the Supreme Court's ban on compulsory religious exercises in the public schools.

The committee, under the chairmanship of Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, the House Democratic leader, has reached the decision-making stage after five days of hearings that ended Friday.

At the outset, Albert had told newsmen that the platform will bear the stamp of President Johnson, who is assured of nomination at the convention which opens Monday. Close liaison has been maintained with the White House by the committee.

Platform Preamble

Albert said the committee plans to make public one part of the platform — by Sunday — the bulky preamble lauding "the stewardship, the total accomplishments, of the Kennedy-Johnson administration."

He also said he hopes that work will be completed Sunday on the platform planks on which the party will stand in the coming campaign.

Committee officials expressed confidence that one old bugaboo of Democratic platform drafts, a civil rights plank, can be handled this year without stirring up any big ruckus.

Vigorous Enforcement

The outlook is for a pledge of vigorous enforcement of the 1964 Civil Rights Act but no demand for new legislation in this field.

This prospect was not changed by a jarring speech at Friday's final hearing by segregationist Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama. He demanded outright repeal of the new antidiscrimination law, which he said has been endorsed in every aspect by the Communist party.

He said the people of the South would refuse to accept a moderate civil rights plank like Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia proposed the day before — a plank pledging implementation of the 1964 act but with emphasis on local rather than on federal enforcement.

Missing U.S. Officials Are Reported Safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department was notified today that three U.S. officials missing in the Congo have been found safe and in good condition.

They are Col. William A. Dodds, 50, and Lt. Col. Donald V. Rattan, 39, counter-insurgency experts assigned to the U.S. military mission to the Congo, and Lewis R. MacFarlane, 25, of Seattle, Wash., vice consul at Bukavu.

The men apparently managed to make their way out of the Congo and into neighboring Rwanda.

The U.S. Embassy at Kigali, Rwanda, notified the State Department only that "Dodds and party safe and sound. Details follow."

The three had been unreported since a wave of rebel troops swept into Bukavu in the eastern Congo. Although hopes for their safety persisted, the State Department at one point said they disappeared under conditions which raised concern for their safety.

Meet in Philadelphia

Negro GOP Leaders Work to Strengthen Political Influence

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Negro Republican leaders gather here today for a two-day informal convention that aims to strengthen the Negroes' hand in GOP politics.

Although the assembly will include some of the disgruntled delegates to last month's Republican National Convention, a spokesman for the group said there is no intention of splitting with the party.

John Clay, a Philadelphia attorney who is secretary of the group, says, "We are going to establish a permanent organization within the framework of our party."

Greater Interest

Clay said, "We want Negroes to take a greater interest in politics. We want to encourage more Negroes to run for public office. We want Negroes to have more say in their party's policies and programs. We want an enlightened Negro population."

George G. Fleming, an alternate delegate to the Republican convention from East Orange, N.J., temporary chairman of the group, said voter registration is one of the meetings' chief aims.

After the Republican convention, there was dissatisfaction expressed by some Negroes over the party's platform plank in regard to civil rights.

The GOP presidential nominee, Sen. Berry Goldwater, had voted against the civil rights law.

Talk of Bolting

But despite talk of a Negro bolt of the Republican party in support of President Johnson, Fleming said he doubted such a break would occur.

Clay agreed. "I must stress that whatever is done by the organization will be within the framework of the party," he said. "What individuals do is a different matter, of course, and strictly their own affair."

Between 50 and 75 Negro leaders are expected to attend.

Made by Dean Acheson

Makarios Has Rejected Another Peace Offer

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus, has again rejected a peace proposal for the island made by former U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Makarios also denied reports Friday that Greece has asked him to reject any Soviet military aid and accept the Acheson plan.

The formula offered by Acheson at the Cyprus talks in Geneva suggests:

—Eventual union of Cyprus with Greece.

— Creation of a sovereign Turkish military base on Cyprus.

— Giving Turkey a small Greek island, and — Protection for the Turkish Cypriot minority.

The archbishop said the plan "removes the Cyprus problem from its correct basis and cannot provide a basis for discussion."

Makarios made his statements after nearly 30 hours of consultations here with Greek Defense Minister Petros Garoufalias.

Acheson Plan

Garoufalias denied he had come here to persuade Makarios to accept the Acheson plan, but said he is certain peace will be maintained on Cyprus.

But he pledged that "in case of a violent Turkish attack (on Cyprus), Greece will be obliged to take defensive action."

Garoufalias and Makarios visited Greek Cypriot villages in northwest Cyprus where Turkish jets attacked earlier this month in retaliation for a Greek Cypriot drive on a Turkish Cypriot coastal enclave.

The ceasefire was marred Friday by reports that a Greek Cypriot was killed and a Turkish Cypriot policeman wounded in shooting incidents near Paphos in western Cyprus.

Democratic Party Striving For Civil Rights Compromise

Johnson Reportedly Wants Endorsement From South

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — With the unseen hand of President Johnson guiding them, Democrats try today to compromise a civil rights fight that might make shambles out of their convention which opens Monday.

Delegate Seating

The word from the President was to play it cool at a scheduled Convention Credentials Committee session today when protests come up on the seating of the Mississippi and Alabama delegates who had advertised their intention of not voting for the President in the November election.

The difficulty was that committee Chairman David L. Lawrence could not ignore three bus loads of representatives of the Negro-dominated Mississippi Freedom Democratic party who were on hand to contest the "regulars" chosen under the auspices of Gov. Paul Johnson of Mississippi.

President's Position

The President's position, as assessed by Democratic strategists, was that he desperately wanted an endorsement from the South as the first Southern president in 100 years. His decision was not to sacrifice the support of the Negores in Northern industrial, big electorag vote states for what he could salvage out of the South.

Whatever Lawrence's committee decides, there remains the possibility that the fight would be projected to the convention floor.

Meanwhile, the major question hanging over the convention is who President Johnson wants for his running-mate.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, who was everywhere, speaking, gesticulating, tackling the hard problems that confronted the administration and generally deporting himself as helpful assistant president, remained the front runner.

Senate Row Erupts Over Redistricting

Proxmire in Clash With Two Southern Democrat Leaders

BY ERNEST B. VACARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has nine days to cool off from a blazing row over state legislative apportionment during which one Southerner called the Supreme Court justices "screwballs."

Just before it recessed Friday for the Democratic National Convention, liberal Northern Democrats and Southern critics of the court clashed over court-ordered reapportionment of both houses of state legislatures on a population basis.

Sens. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., and Russell B. Long, D-La., charged the tribunal was trying to usurp legislative authority.

Hot Exchanges

The two Southerners got into hot exchanges with Sens. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois and William Proxmire of Wisconsin, two leaders of a Democratic liberal filibuster against a proposal that would add a rider to the foreign aid bill to delay reapportionment for as much as two years.

The proposal has been offered as a compromise by the Senate leaders of both parties, Republican Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Democrat Mike Mansfield of Montana, at Dirksen's demand.

McNamara Abandons Matterhorn Climb

ZERMATT, Switzerland (AP) — U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara abandoned an attempt to climb 14,701-foot Matterhorn because of heavy snow Saturday.

Instead, McNamara and his teen-age son, Robert Craig, left the Belvedere mountain lodge for an excursion to the Solvay refugee below the summit.

Houston Attorney Leon Jaworski, a counsel to the Warren Commission and a former attorney for President Johnson, is a leading candidate to succeed Robert Kennedy as U. S. Bukavu Messages Report Rebels Still Controlling Some of City's Outskirts LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Congolese soldiers today began rousting rebels out of hillside shanty towns surrounding Bukavu, wrested from the leftist insurgents Friday. Three Americans missing during three days of fierce fighting were found alive and well.

The American Embassy in Leopoldville received a radio message this morning saying the three Americans had been picked up "near Bukavu." Other details were unavailable.

Military Mission

The three are Lewis R. Macfarlane, 25, Seattle, Wash., American vice consul in Bukavu; Col. William A. Dodds, 50, and Lt. Col. Donald V. Rattan, 39, counterinsurgency experts assigned to the U.S. military mission to the Congo.

They were trapped when nine truckloads of the Communist-backed rebels swarmed into Bukavu Wednesday.

Latest radio messages from Bukavu said the rebels still controlled some of the city's outskirts. Bukavu, once a popular tourist resort, is built on fingers of land jutting into Lake Kivu.

Heavy Damage

At one point, Congolese Col. Leonard Mulamba and Bukavu's army garrison of about 800 men were driven back into the European residential section, which suffered heavy damage during the three days of street fighting.

Mulamba managed to break out of the rebel ring after reinforcements reached him from Leopoldville. The deciding factor was an airlift of about 150 former Katanga gendarmes to Bukavu aboard two U.S. Air Force C130 Hercules air freighters. The gendarmes had been called back to fight by their former chief in the days of Katanga's secession, Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe.

New York's Senate Race Taking Shape

Keating-Kennedy Fight Could Have Effect on Both Parties

NEW YORK (AP) — The race for U.S. senator from New York shaped up today as Democrat Robert F. Kennedy against Republican incumbent Kenneth B. Keating.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York, the state's leading Democrat, endorsed Kennedy Friday.

The attorney general, 38, who lives in Virginia and votes in Massachusetts, was expected to come to New York early next week to announce his candidacy. He reportedly already has selected top campaign aides and a public relations agency.

Wagner Endorsement

Wagner's endorsement practically assured Kennedy of the nomination at the state Democratic convention Sept. 1. Kennedy is expected to delay his resignation as attorney general until then.

After the mayor's statement, all but one of Kennedy's announced challengers dropped out. That one, Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, an upstater from Amsterdam, has promised a floor fight. He contends Kennedy is ineligible as a non-resident.

Wagner said that Kennedy's talent and achievements, plus the "dazzling magic" of his name, outweight his non-residency.

Many Ties

Besides, the mayor said, Kennedy lived in New York as a boy, went to school here, and has "many ties of association and interest."

Kennedy is expected to move to New York soon, to satisfy the constitutional requirement of residency "at the time of his election."

When he announced his candidacy earlier in the week, Keating humorously started by telling reporters he would not be a candidate for the Senate — from Massachusetts.

Vietnamese Action Turns Into a Farce

Special Forces Get Lost Moving Against Viet Cong

BY HORST FAAS

BLACK VIRGIN MOUNTAIN, Viet Nam (AP) — More than 1,000 Vietnamese Special Forces and irregular troops moved into the Viet Cong's backyard here this week — and got lost.

Despite the guidance of U.S. Army helicopters and a staff of American officers 10 times more numerous than the Vietnamese commanders, one company of about 100 men lost contact completely with the other units for nearly one day.

Troops staggered almost blindly through jungle thickets of bamboo and palm. One soldier was critically hurt when a deer charged across a file of troops and struck him on the head with his antlers.

Not Ready

Americans generally agreed the troops were not ready for big operations of this kind until their level of training improves markedly.

"We don't know how many regiments the Viet Cong has up here, but they may have roughly a full division in the area. If they happen to discover our units around, they could probably pick us off like flies," an American said.

Patrolling troops discovered a site where another government unit was recently ambushed and virtually wiped out. There were 35 fresh graves.

Empty Viet Cong fortifications testified to the enemy's careful preparations. Entrenchments, all invisible from the air, included command bunkers, communications ditches, and carefully concealed supply lines leading into the jungle.

Contact with the enemy was negligible, but the Viet Cong made his presence felt in little ways.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Helicopters and fighter planes beat off sizable Communist units Friday at a U.S. and Vietnamese Special Forces camp, 60 miles northwest of Saigon, military sources reported today.

The attacked camp, Suoi Da, is at the foot of Black Virgin Mountain where a large operation has been under way during the past week. The camp is manned by about 400 Vietnamese and 25 American troops.

2 Men Killed in Explosion, Fire

KENVIL, N.J. (AP) — Two men were killed Friday when an explosion and fire destroyed an isolated powder storage building on the sprawling grounds of the Hercules Powder Co. plant.

A company official said fire broke out in the building at 7:43 a.m. and touched off brush fires in the area. He said the two victims were believed to be alone in the building at the time.

Local fire companies were called to the plant. The company said the cause of the initial fire was not determined.

The plant, which produces commercial explosives and rocket fuels under government contract, has been the scene of several explosions in recent years.

Justice Testifies He Gave Money to Town Board Chairman

OCONTO (AP) — A municipal justice testified Thursday he handed over to Norris C. Adams, chairman of the town of Townsend, a total of $1,500 paid by the town for gravel.

Justice Abe Estreen, who operates a gravel pit in the town, testified during a circuit court trial of a taxpayer's suit which charges Adams with misappropriating town money and equipment to his own use. Circuit Court Judge Raymond J. Rahr of Green Bay is hearing the case.

Estreen said he paid to Adams five cents a yard for 30,000 yards of gravel sold to the town from 1958 through 1962. Before Estreen took the stand on the third day of the trial Adams denied he received any kickbacks on the sale of gravel.

Estreen testified that negotiations for the gravel sale were made with Adams and he had not been asked to submit a bid. Estreen said the town ordinarily paid him 10 cents a yard but that he had to agree to turn half the amount over to Adams in cash before the chairman would give him the town's check.

Estreen said that to cover up the kickbacks, Adams had him sign documents showing that he had received advance payment for the gravel.

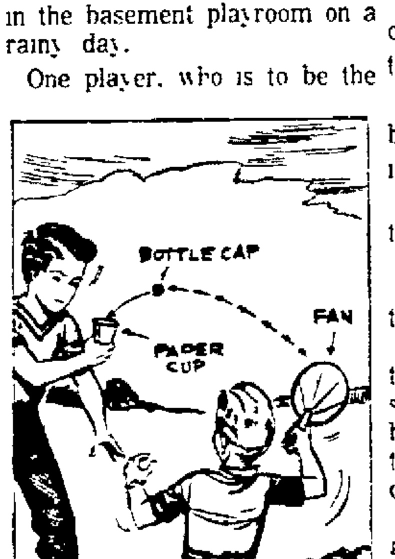
Bottle-Cap Pitch Fun to Play at Picnic or Indoors

BY CAPPY DICK

"Bottle Cap Pitch" is fun for two players at a back yard cook-out, at a picnic or even in the basement playroom on a rainy day.

One player, who is to be the pitcher, is given a paper cup and a bottle cap.

The other player is given a hand fan, table tennis paddle or any similar object to use as a bat.



Pitcher must catch batted bottle cap.

The pitcher places the bottle cap in his paper cup, then tosses the cap toward the batter.

The batter must strike the bottle cap with his fan, sending it back toward the pitcher.

The pitcher must try to catch the cap in the paper cup.

If he succeeds, the batter is out and the pitcher and batter change positions.

If the pitcher fails to catch the batted bottle cap, the batter scores one point and remains at bat. He continues at bat until the pitcher catches the bottle cap.

Three innings constitute a game. The player who has the highest score at the end of the third inning is the winner.

LEGAL NOTICES

LEGAL PUBLICATION

On August 19th, 1964, Norbertine Fathers filed with the Federal Communication Commission, Washington, D. C., application for the renewal of license of station WHBY, Appleton, Wisconsin, to operate said station in the public interest. This station operates on the frequency 1230 kilocycles.

The officers and directors of Norbertine Fathers are: Rev. David E. Rondou, President and Director, Rt. Rev. S. M. Killeen, Vice President and Director, and Rev. Isadore M. Gosz, Secretary, Treasurer and Director.

Norbertine Fathers is a religious institution operated as a non-profit corporation under the laws of the State of Wisconsin and it has no stock ownership.

Members of the public who desire to bring to the Commission's attention facts concerning the operation of this station should write to the Federal Communications Commission, Washington 25, D. C., before September 18th, 1964. Letters should set forth in detail the specific facts which the writer wishes the Commission to consider in passing on this application.

City of Appleton

SEALED BIDS
SEWER AND WATER LATERALS

Sealed bids will be received by the City of Appleton, Wisconsin at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Appleton, Wisconsin up to 1:30 P.M. (C.D.S.T.) September 1, 1964, for the installation of sewer and water laterals on various streets in said City. Bid envelope to be marked "Sewer and Water Laterals." Any bid not properly marked will be cause for rejection.

Proposals shall be on forms furnished by the City and available in the office of the Director of Public Works. (Bids not submitted on original form as provided for by the City shall be rejected.) No bid will be opened unless a completed "Bidder's Proof of Responsibility" was filed at least five days before the scheduled time for opening of bids and was approved by the Board of Public Works. "Bidder's Proof of Responsibility" forms may be secured from and are to be returned to the City Clerk.

A certified check or bid bond for $100 shall accompany each bid. Cash will not be acceptable and will be cause for rejecting the bid.

The City reserves the right to reject any and all bids or to accept any bid deemed for the best interests of the City, and to waive any informalities in the bidding.

CITY OF APPLETON

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
ON SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE, That the Common Council of the City of Appleton, Wisconsin has declared its intention to exercise its power under Section 66.60, Wisconsin Statutes, to levy special assessments upon property within the following described area for benefits conferred upon such property by improvement of the following streets:

SANITARY SEWER AND WATER MAIN

McDonald Street from Pershing Street to Longview Drive

GRADING AND GRAVELING

McDonald Street from Pershing Street to Longview Drive

Longview Drive from McDonald Street to Kirkland Court

The assessment area consists of all property fronting upon both sides of the named streets from intersection to intersection or point to point described herewith including the full width of said streets to the center of said intersections of said limits.

The report of the Board of Public Works showing preliminary and/or Final Plans and Specifications, estimated cost of improvements, proposed assessments and awards of damages is on file in my office at the City Hall, 225 North Oneida Street, Appleton, Wisconsin and may be inspected there on any regular business day from Monday through Friday inclusive between the hours of 8:00 A.M. and 12 Noon and from 1:00 P.M. to 5:00 P.M.

You are further notified that the Common Council will hear all persons interested or their agents or attorneys concerning matters contained in the preliminary resolution authorizing such assessments and the report, including proposed assessments of benefits and award of damages at a regular meeting of the Common Council to be held on Wednesday, September 2, 1964 at 7:30 P.M. or as soon thereafter as can be heard, in the Council Chambers at the City Hall, 225 North Oneida Street, Appleton, Wisconsin. All objections will be considered at said hearing and thereafter the amount of the assessments will be finally determined.

Dated August 21, 1964

Green Bay Man Advisor in Washington

Business Trade With Tunesia Proposed By George Farah

BY FRANCIS McKUSICK
Post Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—George Farah, Green Bay business man, left the White House Thursday afternoon with President Johnson's salutation, "The White House is yours. Come see us," still ringing in his ears.

Farah is in Washington in an advisory capacity on small business problems in Tunesia and he was entertained at the White House Thursday at briefings followed by a cocktail party given for more than 170 small businessmen throughout the United States who are attending this conference.

Arriving at the White House Thursday afternoon in Post Master General Gronouski's private car, complete with chauffeur Farah said the afternoon was "simply fabulous"

The White House first gave briefings to the small businessmen which included talks by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Assistant Secretary of Defense Vance, Eugene Foley, administration of The Small Businessmens' Association and Dr. Walter Heller, chairman of President Johnson's economic advisors.

After the briefings, the small businessmen, the President, Dean Rusk and others adjourned to the blue room where cocktails were served

"Egghead"

Farah had the honor of talking with Rusk at the party as well as Dr. Heller who, Farah said described himself smilingly as an "egghead" Farah said Rusk briefed the group on the Cyprus situation as well as Viet Nam and the Southeast Asian situation. Rusk told the group "We have never been stronger than we are now in trouble spots."

Farah emphasized, however, much of the discussion and the briefing was classified information and he could give no more detail on it As to the project itself, which Farah is working on, he said it was a "joint venture enterprise" between Tunisian small businessmen and American small businessmen

Farah himself devised the idea, after a trip to Tunisia, that the economy of that country could be much improved if businessmen knew how to transport, package, and market their agricultural products.

Joint Venture

Explaining that in the past the French had 'exploited Tunisia" Farah said he thought the free world would be much benefited if Tunisian business people could go jointly into business with Americans. The Tunisians and the Americans would split the costs of construction of new factories and other facilities and then would share the profits on a 50-50 basis

Farah's project, which so far has been approved in principal by both the President and The Agency for International Development (AID) concerns largely the grape and olive crops in Tunisia

Farah's idea was to form a corporation which could make not only olive oil but other olive products and find a market for them in the U S. and elsewhere He said the grape industries could be expanded to include not only the making of wine but also grape juice, jellies and other by-products

Farah planned to go to Atlantic City Thursday night as a possible alternate delegate to the convention

Farah, having had a taste of official Washington, said he wanted to take advantage of an opportunity to be a part of news in the making at Atlantic City rather than just siting on the sidelines and watching on TV

Marshall Erdmann Madison businessman, also attended the conference Erdmann has in mind establishing a cooperative project with Tunisian businessmen which would standardize the size of their doors and windows in the country. Farah said, although this might seem like a minor project, "if you ever had been in Tunisia and had seen the way the houses were built you would realize the need for standard size doors and windows

Kegling Loop Plans Election of Officers

Deadline Set to Register for Sept. 8 Primary

KAUKAUNA — Persons desiring to vote in the Sept. 8 primary have until 5 p.m. Wednesday to register if they have not previously registered, according to Karl E. Marzahl, city clerk.

Persons of voting age who have not previously registered and who have been residents of the state for one year and the city 10 days previous to the election may register at the clerk's office during regular office hours. Electors who have changed their name or residence in the community since the last election must notify the clerk of the change.

Polls in the city will be open from 8 a m. to 8 p m. with First and Second Ward polls at Park School, Third and Fourth Ward at Nicolet School and Fifth Ward at the Vocational School building on Oak Street.

Fox Cities Men Receive Two Patents

Invent Cutting and Scoring Die, Sheet Conveying Device

Patents were granted to one Neenah and one Menasha man during July.

Robert H. Downie, 415 Hawthorne, Neenah, employed by the Marathon Division, American Can Co, received a patent for "Cutting and Scoring Die"

"Sheet Conveying Apparatus" got a patent for Robert W. Cole, 969 Ninth St, Menasha.

The Downie invention is a cutting and scoring die comprising two metallic plates which are formed by photographic and etching techniques The cutting and scoring elements of the die are fixed parts of the plate.

Precision Possible

According to Downie, his invention makes possible for the first time the preparation of cutting and scoring dies in which the dimensions and space relationships of the various cutting and scoring elements may be tailored precisely.

This way one can obtain the best efficiency in cutting and scoring operations for the particular type and thickness of paperboard stock to be formed into carton blanks.

In addition, since the die elements are photographically composed, any number of absolutely identical die plates may be produced This has never been possible before.

The patent was granted to American Can Co.

Sheet Conveyor

The sheet conveying apparatus invented by Cole is designed to receive corrugated paperboard sheets as they are delivered from the cutting and scoring machine, position them in small stacks of predetermined size and transfer the stacks to a conveyor or station so that alternate stacks are in inverted positions.

As an added feature of the invention, alternate stacks are placed on the conveyor or station in an offset position and the entire operation of the apparatus is accomplished without expensive and time - consuming manual labor

Cole has assigned his patent to Menasha Corp

Johnson Meets With Governors

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson meets today with most of the 34 Democratic governors and may use them as a final sounding board in selecting a vice presidential running mate

George Reedy, White House press secretary, was asked Friday whether Johnson might announce his choice in a speech to the state executives

"I've heard nothing to that effect except rumors," Reedy replied

Four Southern governors — George Wallace of Alabama Orval Faubus of Arkansas, John McKeithen of Louisiana and Paul Johnson of Mississippi — have made no secret of their intent to stay away from the White House meeting

Missing Girl Found Under Porch Within Block of Her Home

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The grim two-day search for Debbie Dappen ended Friday night when a reporter found her body under a porch just a block from her home. Police say a 14 - year-old boy who earlier had reported finding the girl's shoe in a culvert has admitted killing her.

Debbie

Police Chief James Finan of suburban Fairfax at first said George Rickey Jr. denied knowing how the four-year-old girl's body got under his porch, but broke down a few minutes after police began questioning him Finan said the youth admitted killing the girl after she screamed when he made sexual advances.

No Solid Leads on Hit, Run Driver

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY—A police investigation into Thursday's hit and run accident in which one man was killed and another seriously injured moved ahead on several fronts Friday, but authorities frankly admitted they had no solid leads to the identity of the driver

Wallace (Yorky) Smith, 74, was killed and a companion, Hancy A. Cravens, 41, seriously hurt when they were struck by a car while crossing Main Street at N Adams Street. Both men lived at the YMCA.

Police said today they had located a witness who saw the men "fly through the air" after being hit in a crosswalk.

The car then swerved sharply over the center line of Main Street, apparently to avoid the two men who were thrown to the pavement about 50 feet east of the crosswalk, swerved back into its proper lane, then turned right onto N. Jefferson Street and disappeared

Police revealed Cravens was unable to furnish any information when questioned by detectives in St Vincent Hospital late Thursday afternoon

Cravens, who was taken off the critical list, now is showing continued improvement and is in fair condition, according to hospital reports

Police today also sent the clothing of the two men, a broken radio aerial and piece of a directional signal light found at the scene to the FBI Laboratory in Washington, D. C. for analysis

They hope the laboratory will be able to provide information about the hit and run car from paint flecks in the clothing

Guerrilla Fighting Reported in Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Anti-Castro guerrillas are engaged in active fighting in the rugged Escambray mountains of south-central Cuba, a Cuban exile organization said today

A spokesman for Sentinels of Freedom said 12 Castro militiamen were killed and numerous others injured by a guerrilla force in one of two small battles July 12

In the other fight, he said eight militiamen were killed while three rebel casualties were reported

The spokesman said the information came from underground sources inside Cuba

Fair Officials Seek New Site

200-Mile Auto Race Sunday Marks End Of 1964 Exposition

MILWAUKEE (AP)—As the 1964 Wisconsin State Fair was heading into its final two days, the supervising State Exposition Board began moving at a faster pace to decide on the site for future fairs

In another decision, the board set the tentative dates for the 1965 fair as Aug. 13 to 25.

Heavy rains failed to slow attendance Friday when Youth Day crowds added to the turnout. The unofficial count by 10 p m was 93,155, compared with 89,919 on the same day last year.

The total for eight days was 711,057, compared with 693,924 in 1963.

Howard Voegeli of Monticello won six blue ribbons in Friday's Brown Swiss judging. His prizes included the grand champion cow award, won by V.B. Princess Hilunda Pavanne

Ernie Kueffner of Hartford had the reserve grand champion female and Norvic Farms of Lake Mills showed the junior champion bull.

Traynor Farm of Milton Junction had the grand champion bull and the grand champion female in the Milking Shorthorn class.

Avalon Farm of Columbus had the grand champion bull in Red Polls and Marchia Rose Mohler of Wanatah, Ind, entered the grand champion female Ayrshires and Jerseys were judged today, which was Dairy Day.

The 10-day fair closes Sunday with the final program including a 200-mile race of Indianapolis type cars.

Goldwater in New York to Address 'Hams'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater turns from politics to his favorite hobby today after charging that "deep amnesia" marks the way President Johnson's policymakers deal with the Soviet Union

The Republican presidential nominee flies to New York tonight to address the 50th annual meeting of the American Radio Relay League.

His press secretary, Paul Wagner, said Goldwater, an amateur radio operator, would make a non-political speech to his fellow hams but might slip in a remark or two about Johnson

Auto Bargaining Session Recessed

DETROIT (AP) — Despite the fact that picking of a strike target is only five days away, new contract bargaining in the auto industry was in weekend recess today.

A strike, if one comes, likely is only 10 days away.

Ford and United Auto Workers bargainers didn't even meet Friday. Chrysler and UAW negotiators met for only 15 minutes and at General Motors three hours was spent delving into general contract areas such as skilled trades and military leaves.

Peninsula Festival Moves Into Final Weekend Series

FISH CREEK—Two Festival veterans will make delayed solo appearances at 8 p.m. tonight as the 12th annual Peninsula Music Festival moves into its final weekend at Gibraltar High School Auditorium. Pianist Mary Sauer and clarinetist Raymond Gariglio will be the soloists in a program whose emphasis is on music of the first half of the 20th century.

Miss Sauer will perform Edward Collins' Concert Piece in A Minor and Symphonic Variations by Cesar Franck. Gariglio will take the solosist spotlight for Debussy's First Rhapsody for Clarinet.

Orchestral Numbers

The remainder of the program will offer works composed 20 years and more ago. Purely orchestral numbers are Alexander Tcherepnin's "Concerto da Camera" (1924) and "Dance from Galanta" by Zoltan Kodaly, composed in 1934.

Except for the piano pieces featuring Miss Sauer, the other music will be new to Fish Creek, although neither the Franck nor the Collins works have been heard since they were first played here in 1956. Tcherepnin, whose "Concerto da Camera" is being played as a salute to his 65th birthday, had a world premiere in 1954 when his "The Lost Flute" was commissioned for the Festival.

Actually Concertos

Although neither are so labeled, both the Collins "Concert Piece" and the Franck "Variations" are actually piano concertos. Only the fact that the themes are not developed prevents the Concert Piece from qualifying as full scale concerto. Collins himself described it as a "large work in miniature."

Insurance Man Kidnaped During Attempted Holdup

MILWAUKEE (AP) — An insurance company operator was abducted today during an attempted robbery of a service station.

The FBI and police issued pickup orders in Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan and Minnesota for the holdup man and his victim, Warren L. Vedder, 42, operator of the W.L. Vedder Insurance Co. of Milwaukee.

Vedder and the man were last seen in Vedder's car, a green 1964 Oldsmobile with Wisconsin license plates.

Station Attendant

The North Side service station attendant, Richard Jetzer, 25, said a man walked into the station about 2:15 a.m. and Jetzer asked if he could help him The man told Jetzer to wait on other customers first

About 2 30 a m., Vedder drove into the station, accompanied by a woman While Jetzer filled the car with gasoline, the first man walked up, held his hand under his jacket as if he had a gun and demanded money.

The man also ordered Vedder and the woman out of the car. Jetzer ran into the service station, locked the door and called police Mrs Blume walked about 20 feet and hid behind a gasoline pump

Bolivia Breaks Diplomatic Ties With Castro Cuba

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The Bolivian government has broken relations with Cuba, thus tightening the hemispheric boycott of Fidel Castro's regime. Only two nations, Uruguay and Mexico, still have ties with Havana

The Bolivian break was announced Friday night and was taken under the sanctions voted against Cuba by the Organization of American States in Washington last month

The government of President Victor Paz Estenssoro braced for possible reaction from the strong leftist elements in Bolivia But no immediate demonstrations were reported

Open Bids on New WSU-O Women's Dorm

Campus Building to Have 480 Capacity; Completion Next Fall

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Apparent low bids totaling $1,191,739 for construction of a proposed 480-student women's dormitory on the Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh campus were opened here Thursday.

The Board of Regents of State Universities office said construction is authorized to start next week on the four-story building consisting of two connected rectangular units.

Scheduled for completion by September, 1965, the new dormitory will bring to 2,800 the residence halls compacity of WSU-O.

Submitting low bids were Fluor Bros. Construction Co., Oshkosh, general construction, $830,440; R. Wenzel Plumbing and Heating Co., Appleton, heating, $111,766; R. Selig and Sons Inc. Plumbing and Heating, Appleton, plumbing, $110,594, and Petrie Electric Inc., Fond du Lac, electrical, $138,939.

Each floor of the proposed two units will provide living space for 3? women and a social lounge. The full basement will contain recreational facilities.

Currently being constructed on the Oshkosh campus is a 244-student dormitory at Algoma Blvd. and Elmwood Ave. The twin unit will be constructed at W. Lincoln Ave. and Cherry St. on property recently acquired by the university. Houses are being moved from the site.

Architects are Sanstedt-Knoop-Yarbo, Oshkosh.

Several Solutions to Ingrown Hair Problem

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has a very tough beard and is constantly bothered by ingrown hairs. He tries to tweeze them out and there are so many it takes him an hour or longer to shave. Is there anything he can do to prevent this condition? — MRS. J. J. L.

Molner

Ingrown hair of the beard usually occurs in the neck (but can occur elsewhere). In the neck, the hairs emerge from the follicle at different and not always predictable angles.

What happens is that the hair, instead of growing out normally, "digs into" the skin. Sometimes it curls up, and creates quite a miniature ball of hair under the skin.

Shaving too close is a contributing factor when people tend to have this trouble. Shaving with the angle of the hair, rather than "against the grain" can ease the condition. On the neck, however, it may not always be possible to determine the direction.

Different Razor

Using a different kind of razor may help. For some, an electric razor is more satisfactory.

Pulling out the hairs with tweezers can at most give only temporary relief, since they will grow back again. It is possible, however, if only a certain few hairs are causing trouble, to have them removed by electrolysis, which is permanent.

In some cases, there can be a disorder of the follicle right at the skin surface. It can be well worth while to have a dermatologist check this possibility, and if this is the case, rather simple treatment sometimes is effective.

For example, a softening ointment is sometimes used. It must be obtained by a doctor's prescription. It is not a panacea for all cases, but only in certain types.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: How effective has ultrasonic sound therapy been in the field of medicine? I have heard from people who had the treatment for arthritis with little or no relief. How about arteriosclerosis or Buerger's disease? — M. G.

The principle of ultrasound is to project heat deep into the tissues by means of high frequency sound waves — of such high frequency that we cannot hear them, but still can carry a good deal of energy, just as a very loud noise can have enough energy to rattle or even break windows.

Ultrasonic treatments have been successful in acute bursitis (but not the chronic type, or that involving calcium deposits), and in mild arthritis.

I have no information indicating that it would be effective in advanced arthritis, in Buerger's disease or arteriosclerosis.

* * *

Dear Dr Molner What is a Baker's cyst? I have one behind my left knee and the doctor says it may have to be removed surgically. Could it be cancerous?

MRS R W.

This is a swelling in the hollow behind the knee It is a swollen bursa, and there are many bursae in this area because of the many tendons

In rare instances fluid may accumulate there in the bursa because of some injury to the knee joint proper. Then it can be painful. In that case, or if the swelling is large, surgical removal is the only recourse. It is not alarming; it is not cancerous.

Acne is one of the most terrible problems of growing up. If you are afflicted with this aggravation, or if you have children who are, write to Dr. Molner in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent for a copy of his helpful and comforting booklet, Acne — The Teen-Age Problem. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Today in History

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Aug. 22, the 235th day of 1964. There are 131 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1787, John Fitch demonstrated his steamboat on the Delaware River near Philadelphia. It eventually proved a financial failure on regularly scheduled voyages and the honors of building the first practical steamboat went to Robert Fulton 17 years later.

On this date:

In 1846, annexation of New Mexico as a territory was proclaimed at Santa Fe.

In 1910, Japan annexed Korea

In 1928, Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York accepted the Democratic presidential nomination in a speech at Albany.

Ten years ago — A conference of the six European Defense Community nations in Brussels ended in failure when French proposals for treaty revisions could not be agreed upon.

Five years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower announced plans for discussing the Laos situation with Soviet Premier Khrushchev on his planned visit to Russia.

One year ago — The U.N Security Council was called into session to hear Israel's charges of aggression by Syria following border clashes.

Boys Robbed 3 Tots, Left Them In Refrigerator

BALTIMORE, Md (AP) — Two older boys put three children in an abandoned refrigerator, where they suffocated, to silence them after taking small change from them, Baltimore police said

In an earlier version of the deaths Aug 10, police said the boys aged 13 and 9, told them the other children were placed in the refrigerator during a game of hide and seek, then forgotten

Two of the dead children were 5 years old, the other 8 Two of them were girls

Police filed Juvenile Court petitions against the two boys Wednesday They conferred today with the state's attorney about possible further action after the boys changed their story.

Police said the boys now say they took some coins from the three younger children. When they started crying and asking for their money back, they were put in the refrigerator in a garage and the door was slammed, police said.

Womens Bowling League Planned At Wittenberg

WITTENBERG — Officers of the Woman's Handicap Bowling League were elected Monday.

They are Mrs. Lee Radun, president; Mrs. Howard Young, vice president; Mrs. Floyd Doering, secretary; Mrs. Ray Michelson, treasurer; Mrs. Hilda Seefeldt, sergeant-at-arms. Mrs. Agnes Vanderkooy, social secretary.

It was voted to again have a handicap league and to have 32 weeks of bowling beginning Sept. 15.

First half winners will compete with the second-half champs at the end of the season for the title.

Two new teams listed are Hatley Beauty Salon and Deweys Bar, bringing the total to 18.

Casettas' Refrigeration team volunteered to arrange for the spring bowling banquet. Ruth Ann Michelson, Bernadine Hoekstra and Patricia Fisher were appointed to the prize committee and Shirley Hartleben, Marie Hoppe and Barbara Burke, schedule committee.

Motorist Denies Driving Charge

A motorist involved in an Appleton car crash last Tuesday which caused the death of a Kaukauna man, pleaded innocent Friday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 to a charge of driving too fast for conditions. Trial has been set for Dec. 2. He posted $50 bond.

Bernard J. Hruska, 22, 900 W. 10th St. Kaukauna, driver of a cement truck which was involved in a collision with a car being driven by Edward Ward, 72, 805 Oviatt St., at Walter Avenue and Newberry Street. Ward died Wednesday night.

No Injuries in Crash West of Sherwood

CHILTON—Damage estimated at more than $100 resulted from a two-car crash at 7:05 p.m. Thursday at State 114 and Calumet County Trunk N, four miles west of Sherwood.

Involved were cars driven by Jonathon Konz, 25, Albuquerque, N. M., and Ralph E. Fenske, 21, Neenah.

County police said the Fenske car was headed southeast on State 114 and Konz was going south on N when the collision occurred.

No one was injured.

Hall Dedicated to U.N. Korean Dead

PUSAN, South Korea (AP) — Amid prayers of five religious faiths, a memorial service hall was dedicated here today to the dead of the United Nations forces in Korea.

C. V. Narasimhan, chief of cabinet to Secretary-General U Thant, inaugurated the hall on behalf of the secretary-general.

"The cemetery and the memorial hall stand as a monument to peace and — may we hope — reconciliation in Korea and elsewhere," he said.

The hall is a modern-looking structure, with a V-shaped brown roof. It is designed for use by all faiths represented by the 2,266 men from 11 nations buried at the cemetery. Nearly 100,000 Allied soldiers were killed in the Korean War.

Korean, Turkish and American clergymen — Buddhist, Roman Catholic, Jewish, Moslem and Protestant — said the prayers in the half-hour ceremony.

Among those attending were envoys of the 16 nations whose men fought Communist invaders. Also present were the current commander, U.S. Gen. Hamilton Howze, and Korean Defense Minister Kim Sung-eun.

Antique Farm Machine Buffs Holding Fifth Annual Show at Fair

PINCKNEYVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A 20-horsepower cough, a puff of smoke and the crackle of coal fires launched the American Thresherman Association's annual effort to promote a multiton hobby.

The association, organized to preserve antique power' farm machinery, has its fifth annual show under way for a five-day run at the Perry County Fairgrounds in Southern Illinois.

More than a score of tractors and threshing tractors dating from the 1920s and earlier were assembled from throughout Illinois by buffs of a relatively new hobby. Most of the machines are steam driven.

Ruben Loof of rural Pinckneyville put it this way when asked why he would rebuild several tons of cast iron, boiler plate and brass and call it sport: "It used to be we couldn't be more tickled just to get off them. Now we're darned fools enough to buy them up again and play with them."

Error Brings Lots of Calls On Satellite

NEW YORK (AP) — Satellite buffs have got Josephine Schlosser of Brooklyn in orbit with their constant telephone calls for tracking data.

She has no tracking data.

What she does have — besides a jangling telephone and jangled nerves — is the same telephone number as one for a dial-a-satellite service at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

And if you dial the Washington number in New York City without first dialing the Washington area code, you get the Schlosser residence.

The first of some 300 telephone calls came Tuesday night.

Callers Get Angry

"Starting from 8:30 people began calling to ask about space," Mrs. Schlosser said Thursday. "When I explained that this is Brooklyn, they became annoyed. Some of them used terrible language."

The calls apparently were prompted by newspaper stories here that told of the dial-a-satellite service and gave the Washington telephone number.

The calls continued to pour into the Schlosser home at all hours Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Schlosser said the New York Telephone Co. suggested she take the receiver off the hook.

"But I can't do that," she said. "I might be getting some calls from my sister-in-law or somebody else in the family, or my husband might get some business calls."

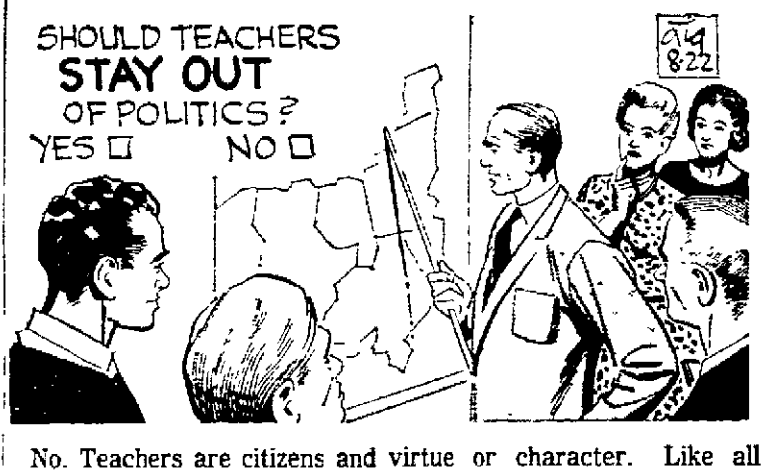
Cambodia Approves Of Indonesia Policy

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodia's chief of state, said today his country approves "without reservation" the foreign policies of Indonesia's President Sukarno.

Sukarno, whose major foreign interest at the moment is his campaign to crush the Federation of Malaysia, has vowed to drive "western imperialism" out of Southeast Asia.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M Duvall, Ph.D.



SHOULD TEACHERS STAY OUT OF POLITICS?
YES ☐
NO ☐
8-22

No. Teachers are citizens and have the rights of others. We may ask only that they do not use their classrooms as propaganda centers for their own particular views. No teacher who does his own job well and honestly should be called into question because of his political views. In his political activities, however, the teacher should make it clear that he speaks only for himself, and not for the school or college in which he teaches.

Can totalitarian leaders retain their power for long?

Yes —— No ——

No. Totalitarian leaders get much support because they have one of the two essentials of political control—power. They fail because they lack the second—virtue or character. Like all men, they are corruptible, but unlike leaders in a democratic society, they cannot be controlled. As a result, in time they bring destruction to both themselves and their nations.

Do we know why civilizations decline?

Yes —— No ——

Yes. We know some of the reasons and even what to do about it. Among the causes for a decline are: a feeling that life is a matter of fun and happiness, rather than commitment to great purposes and goals: and a belief that "men of good will" can bring about a good society, without sound scientific training to guide them. Our survival will result from a combination of concern with technical understanding.

1964 Valuation of Grand Chute Soars

Increases $2 Million Over '63; Now More Than $17 Million

Grand Chute, one of Appleton's fastest growing suburbs, has a 1964 assessed valuation of $17,114,018 — an increase of close to $2 million over last year.

Complete report on the township's valuation was given Thursday by Assessor John R. Stevens.

Based on the amount of new construction — both residential and commercial — scheduled in Grand Chute during the coming months, the valuation should skyrocket in 1965.

Last year's Grand Chute valuation was $15,298,116, including real estate, $13,648,235, and personal property, $1,649,881.

Slightly Over $1 Million

The valuation placed on real estate this year — land and improvements — is $14,744,245, representing a boost of slightly over $1 million.

However, Grand Chute's personal property has a valuation of $2,369,773, including cattle ($326,060), merchants stock ($746,065) and manufacturer's stock ($612,417) to pick out the big ones.

Construction of the Fox River Tractor plant in Grand Chute represented a boost for the township.

A breakdown of real estate assessments includes residential, $8,301,410; mercantile, $2,700,050; manufacturing, $932,300; agricultural, $2,763,400; swamp and waste, $8,416; forest lands, $38,570.

There is less land classified as agricultural this year (14,648 acres) than last (14,931) but the valuation in that category is up $42,000.

Residential values are up about $500,000 this year.

Balloon Rides Wind on Trip To New York

NEW LONDON — The girls were sure they'd never hear of it again.

The helium filled balloon they sent up June 15 just was gone forever, they thought.

But this week Janice and Judy Marasch and Sharon Roloff, New London, got word from Duane Hamm, New York State Conservation Officer from Middleburg, N. Y., that the balloon they had released with their names and addresses on it had landed some 825 miles from its launching spot.

The balloon was found Aug. 13 in a heavily wooded area 2¼ miles from the nearest highway. Middleburg is about 40 miles south of Albany.

Moves to Save Air Service To Clintonville

Sen. Nelson Urges Study of Nationwide Airline Needs

In an apparent attempt to preserve airline service to Clintonville and Ashland, Sen Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., has urged a "thorough" review of nationwide airline service.

The senator added existing airline service should be continued pending the review. He made his remarks in a statement released by his office in Washington this week.

Both Clintonville and Ashland are fighting proposals by North Central Airlines to discontinue their service.

Nelson joined with Minnesota Sens. Humphrey and McCarthy in co-sponsoring a state resaolution which would direct the Senate Commerce Committee "to make a thorough review of the needs for airline service with a view to setting a progressive national policy and recommending any necessary legislation."

Minimum Boardings

Nelson's move followed a long series of letters to the Civil Aeronautics Board urging service be maintained at Ashland and Clintonville.

CAB has a rule an airport must generate at least five passengers a day to merit continued service. Clintonville has fallen below the five passengers a day ruling. Ashland had slightly under five passengers per day last year but boardings are up 12 per cent this year.

Meanwhile the CAB has been studying a number of other smaller airports in Wisconsin and other states, considering whether they should be consolidated with nearby airports.

Rely On Service

Clintonville is the original home of North Central Airlines and its industry, including FWD Corp., has come to rely on air express service for shipment of essential industrial parts and materials, Nelson said. Loss of air service would seriously affect Clintonville's outlook for expanding employement and industrial growth, he added.

Recently, Clintonville hired a consultant to help romote its air service. The city also has been subsidizing passengers fares to maintain the five-a-day minimum boardings rule.

NFO Leaders Satisfied So Far But Would Like to Do Better

Plan Further Livestock Holding Action in Valley Area Next Week

Fox Valley National Farmers Organization (NFO) members said they are satisfied with their campaign so far to keep livestock off the market, but they apparently want to do better.

The NFO began its nationwide livestock withholding action Wednesday afternoon, and activities of the farm organization has been increasing in Wisconsin ever since.

Members tallied results and made plans for next week's actions at a meeting near Shiocton Friday night.

They agreed to be at R. Kuehne Sons, livestock buyer's in Seymour Monday to try to convince farmers not to sell cattle.

In addition, according to Outagamie NFO Chairman Robert Matz, township chairman, with six to eight assistants, will canvass Outagamie and Waupaca counties' non-members during the weekend.

Matz said Greenville was considered a key township. He said another meeting is scheduled for next Friday at New Nightingale near Shiocton.

There was extensive NFO activity Friday at the Quality Packing Plant at New London. Thursday there had been only three representatives of the organization at the plant.

But Friday was another story. Members were in and out of the plant yard until it closed at noon.

As many as 10 members at a time were at the plant, in addition to two members checking incoming trucks and stock.

Major NFO action in Outagamie County was not in the New London area, however. About 75 members were at the Armour receiving station at Dale, Matz said.

Below Normal

Receipts at the station were far below normal, with only 15 calves and one cow brought in by the noon closing. Matz said many farmers bringing cattle to be shipped returned home with the animals, and joined the holding action.

Object of the holding action is to get all plants and stock buyers to sign a master contract with the organization asking minimum prices of $22.75 per hundred weight for top hogs, $32.45 for top beef and $29.45 for sheep. These prices are about comparable to the 1958 price level.

One Wisconsin meat packing firm did not purchase livestock Friday and several others said they may not have livestock next week because of the National Farmers Organization withholding action.

The Peters Packing Co. of Chippewa Falls said there were about 75 NFO members at the plant and no purchases were made. The firm, which also has a plant in Eau Claire, said a meeting with NFO spokesmen had been scheduled for Wednesday.

No Advance Orders

The company spokesman indicated the meeting would take up the withholding action rather than a contract with NFO.

A spokesman for Wilson & Co., a major Milwaukee meat packer, said the firm was "no longer taking advance orders" from wholesalers. He also said the company had heard "through the grapevine that some other packers were closing down."

A spokesman for the Pritzlaff Wholesale Meat Co. of Milwaukee said the firm might soon "be sitting without merchandise." He said the price of hogs, sheep and cattle received in the Milwaukee stockyards had risen by one cent a pound Friday and the price of dressed beef had gone up two cents, a pound.

25 Per Cent Hike

J.C. Lovas of Lovas Wholesale Meats of Milwaukee predicted a 25 per cent increase in meat prices if the holding action continues for an extended period.

"We're in trouble," said Lovas. "This time it looks as though the farmer means to go through with it."

Everett Loomis, an NFO member living at rural Mondovi, said he was visited Friday by 80 other members who had heard he planned to ship 22 heifers to Feedom, Wis., for sale to dairymen. Loomis said at least 10 of the members stayed at his farm until 5 p.m.

"It was all a misunderstanding," said Loomis. He said he thought the holding action applied only to the sale of live stock to meat processors.

Bullhead Lake To be Inspected

CHILTON—Bullhead Lake, located east of Potter, will be boom shocked by State Conservation Department personnel Aug. 31.

Kieth Richenbach, Chilton Conservation warden, said the reason for the survey was to check reproduction and growth of muskies.

Muskies were planted in the lake five years ago.

Paul Schultz, Plymouth, area fish manager, will be in charge of the work.

Philippine Student Visits Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE—Henry Garcia, 22, of the Philippines, arrived in Clintonville Friday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Louis Krueckenberg.

Garcia is a winner of a Rotary Fellowship and is doing post-graduate work at the University of Chicago. He has a bachelor's degree in political science and several years of law.

The Krueckenberg's son, Karl, also is the recipient of a Rotary Fellowship from this area and is now living with the Garcia family in the Philippines. Garcia is an attorney in Quezon City, Philippines.

Garcia will speak at the Rotary Club luncheon meeting Monday at Hotel Marson, and Monday evening will speak at a meeting of the New London Rotary Club.

Support Proposals On County Boards

Civic Groups Net $2,525 From Picnic

Hilbert Firemen, Businessmen Stage Annual Event July 4

HILBERT—A total of $2,525 was netted this year by the Advancement Association here from the annual July Fourth Picnic, Clarence Stengel, chairman, reported Thursday at the group's monthly meeting.

Stengel said it was a record for the event. The picnic is sponsored by the Advancement Association and the Hilbert firemen.

At present the civic organization has a record 49 members.

Clarence Stengel, Willard Franz, H. D. McWilliams and Lawrence Mauthe were delegated to attend the District Boy Scout meeting next week in Little Chute.

Other action taken was to rejuvenate the three welcome signs on highways approaching the village. Two are located along State 57 and one along State 114.

It was decided to sponsor a free corn roast next year in conjuction with a band concert at Civic Park.

Peter Albers was appointed to take charge of the next association baseball excursion set sometime in September.

$33 Bond Forfeited By Illinois Driver

NEW LONDON — An Illinois man forfeited a $33 bond in Municipal Justice Court on a charge of operating a vehicle on the left side of the road Friday.

William S. Steinbecker, Melrose Park, was the driver of a car that collided with a parked vehicle Sunday on State Street.

Hearing Held in Appleton Friday; Expect Difficulty in Drawing Laws to Change Present Setup

Proposals county boards should be smaller and elected according to population were repeated here Friday, but it was apparent a state legislative advisory committee will have some difficulty drawing legislation to accomplish this.

The hearing in the Outagamie County Courthouse was the second in a series of regional meetings the committee, made up of legislative, county board, city, village, town board representatives, is holding around the state.

Appointment of the committee was made after two Waukesha County men asked the state Supreme Court to take original jurisdiction in the question of representation on county boards. They claimed they did not have adequate representation.

The morning session of today's hearing included testimony from valley county board representatives, businessmen and representatives of local Leagues of Women Voters.

Would Be Difficult

Most of the proposals submitted called for smaller boards and equal representation according to population.

However, one committee member pointed out this, in some cases, would be difficult. For example, he said it would be a conflict of interest for a town chairman to serve as county board supervisor from more than one township.

In some instances, however, in order to provide equitable representation, this would be necessary, he said.

Four spokesmen for the League of Women Voters gave the league's views for Outagamie, Winnebago and Fond du Lac counties.

Members of the Appleton League who spoke were Mrs. Gordon McIntyre and Mrs. Mojmir Povolny. Mrs. Paul Doering, Neenah, spoke for Winnebago County, and Mrs. Carlton Rogge gave suggestions for Fond du Lac County.

No Recommendation

All pointed to examples of supervisors in their counties who represent less than 1,000 persons, while other have in excess of 5,000 constituents.

Alvin Fulcer, Kimberly, chairman of the Outagamie Board, said the board did not have a specific recommendation to make.

But he pointed to two steps the county had taken to improve operations: hiring of an auditor and business administrator, and a consultant to conduct an efficiency study of all phases of county government.

He said the county would implement any of the suggestions in the efficiency study possible, and would appeal to the legislature to pass laws to make others possible.

"Ready and Willing"

He said the county board "stands ready and willing to cooperate with this committee any way we can."

Richard Van Sistine, representing the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, said the chamber has been studying the problem of modernization of the county boards for several years. He recommends the boards be limited to 10-18 members.

Myron Lotto, chairman of the Brown County Board, also said his board had no recommendation to make at the present. However, he said supervisors expect to have one ready for the County Boards Association Convention in September.

But he said several things were being discussed in a special county study committee. Among these, he said are that duties of supervisors are not clearly spelled out.

He also said other things—characteristics, economy, future growth, and finally population of an area—should be considered before representation is reapportioned.

Another of his proposals was that any change should be over a three-year period to prevent a "chaotic condition" from arising.

Brillion Teachers Begin Workshop Wednesday

3-Day Session Will Feature Guest Speakers, Faculty Meetings; Classes to begin Aug. 31

BRILLION — Public school teachers will report for a three-day workshop at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Small Businesses Can Serve If Given Chance, Lucey Says

Pledges in Chilton Speech to Help Revitalize Rural Communities

CHILTON—Wisconsin's small businesses can serve their function in the state if given a chance, Patrick J. Lucey, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor said here Friday.

All areas need convenient marketing centers and Wisconsin's small communities can continue to serve this function, Lucey said.

The best way to stimulate economies of smaller communities is to assure local businesses are competitive with the non-local, larger ones, Lucey said.

Three Steps

This can be achieved by assuring ready capital at low interest rates, providing an adequate business advisory program and assuring skilled personnel are available by establishing a regional network vocational schools, he said.

Lucey said the Department of Resource Development has been studying economic problems and the potential for economic expansion. He promised to "work with the department to make local leaders aware of state and federal agencies that can help revitalize their communities."

Lucey said that "whenever local community leaders have the will to survive, they and their state government can revitalize Wisconsin villages and smaller cities."

The Democratic hopeful, who is on a three-week, state-wide tour, concluded saying, "The economy of the state is basically healthy. However, attention must be paid to economic changes which have had an un- smaller communities."

Fremont School Opens Aug. 31

Robert Riemann Is New Principal, Eighth Grade Teacher

FREMONT — The Fremont Grade School will begin classes Aug. 31 with Robert Riemann as principal and teacher of the eighth grade. Riemann is formerly of West Bend and will reside in Fremont.

Mrs. Olive Bleier, Royalton, will teach seventh and part of the sixth grade. Miss Anita Muchow, Reedsburg, will teach grades five and six; Mrs M Huebner, Readfield, four and part of three; Miss Caroline Slotty, New Freedom, two and three, and Mrs. Melvin Richter, Weyauwega, grade one.

During the 185 days of school, Mrs Dorothea Schwartz and Mrs. Marlowe Brogaard will be in charge of the hot lunch program and Stanley Beckman will be custodian. Earnway Schwartz has been contracted as school bus driver furnishing his own bus.

A new acoustical tile ceiling has been installed in first floor classrooms of the older portion of the school building.

Classes on the first day will be conducted only in the morning in preparation for a joint meeting of the teachers and board of education Monday evening.

Mail Carrier Hurt in Crash

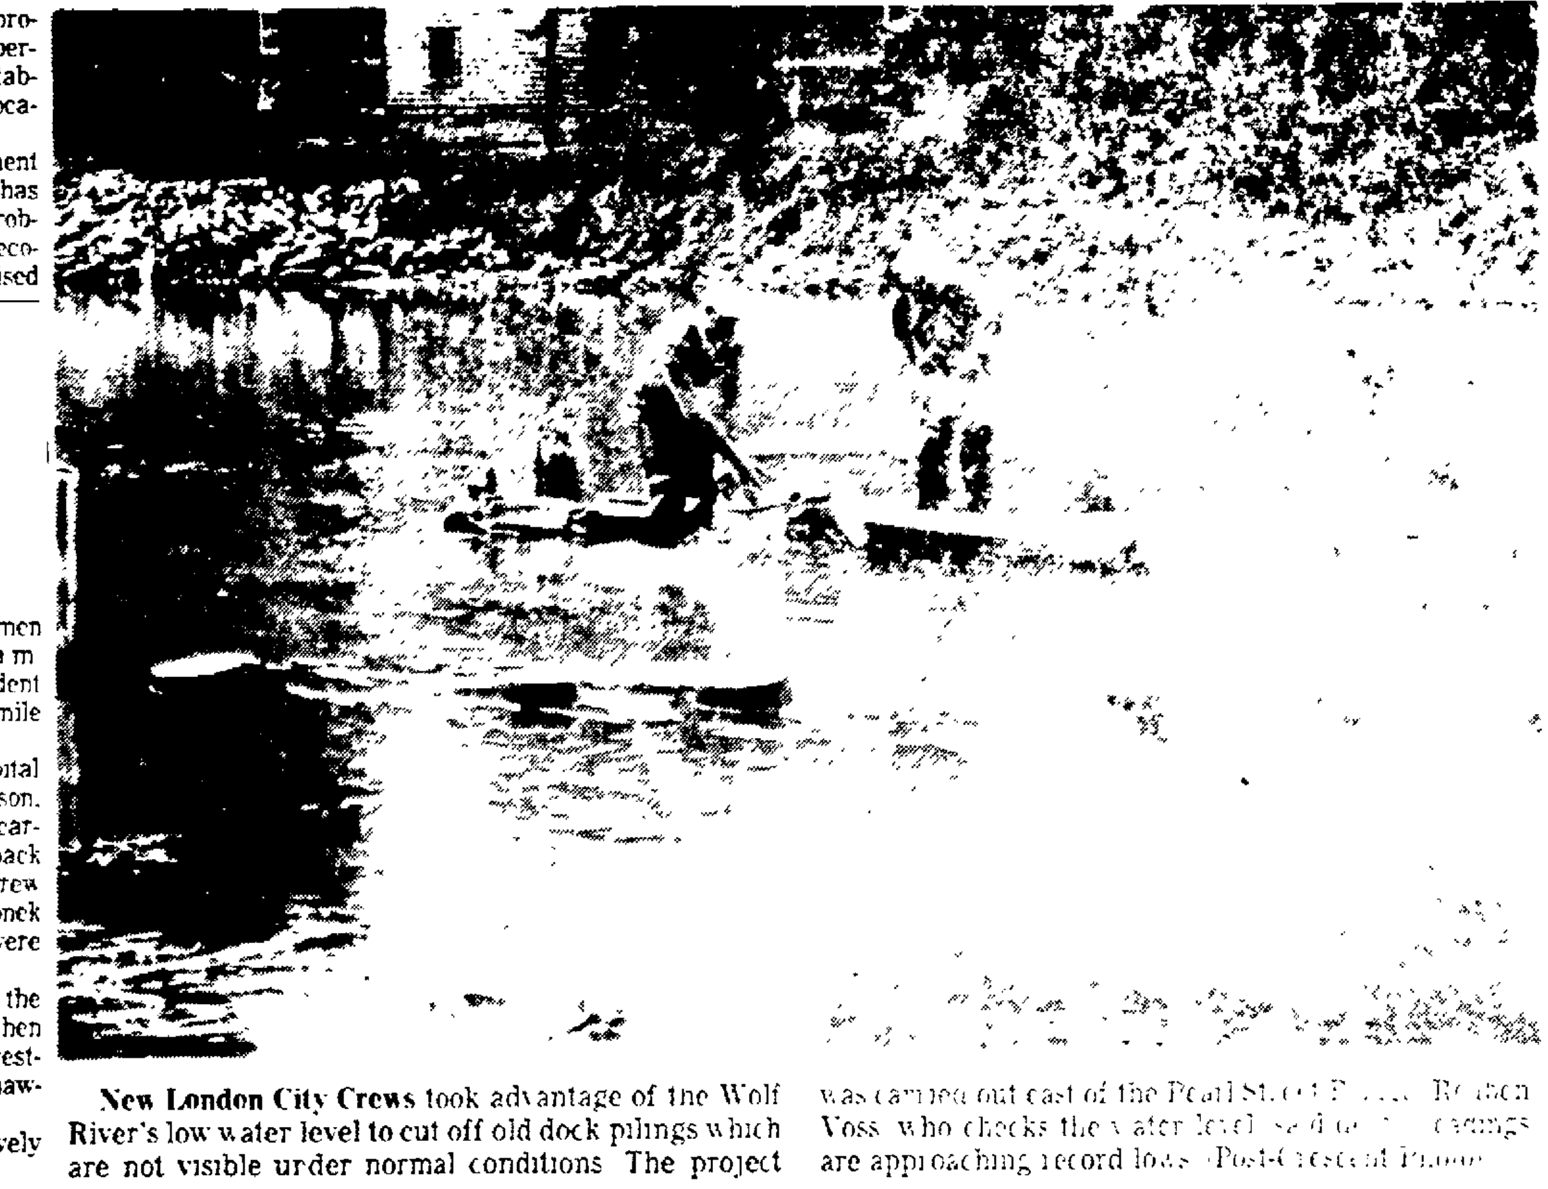
Two Cars Collide On State 29 East Of Wittenberg

WITTENBERG — Two men were injured about 9:45 a.m. Friday in a two-car accident on State 29 about a half mile east of here.

Taken to the Tigerton Hospital were Theodore Gjermundson, 68, Wittenberg, a rural mail carrier, who complained of back and neck injuries, and Andrew Moronek, 48, Pulaski. Moronek suffered facial cuts. They were treated and released.

Gjermundson was entering the highway from a driveway when his car was struck by the westbound Meronek vehicle, Shawano County police said.

The cars were extensively damaged.



New London City Crews took advantage of the Wolf River's low water level to cut off old dock pilings which are not visible under normal conditions. The project was carried out east of the Pearl Street [illegible]. Reuben Voss, who checks the water level, said the readings are approaching record lows. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Bridge Survey Results Hold 12,780 Possible Combinations

MENASHA — Leroy Empey, district engineer for the state highway commission, Tuesday [illegible] 12,720 possible combinations [illegible] determining results of [illegible] bridge traffic survey [illegible] was explaining the enormity of processing thousands of [illegible] cards returned to the commission.

Cards processed are 58,000 [illegible] of 120,000 distributed [illegible] of which were returned to the commission. Of these, approximately 25,000 have already been processed.

Cards Returned

A total of 64.7 per cent of all cards were returned for what is [illegible] the most successful survey of its type ever conducted. Of the returns 74.5 per cent were usable.

The survey was to determine the origin and destination of motor traffic in the Fox Valley and whether a bridge is needed across Little Lake Butte des Morts in the vicinity of Ninth Street in Menasha.

The survey far surpassed all expectations.

Survey Areas

A 120 page manual was developed as a guide in analysis. In the manual are 72 pages containing approximately 3,300 principal buildings, stores and places in the Fox Valley, 43 pages for the coding of street addresses in the Cities of Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Little Chute and Combined Locks, and five pages for the coding of trips beginning or ending in the three county area (Winnebago, Outagamie and Calumet) or the external area.

Church Construction

Pay Is Poor, But Work Rewarding for Youths

BY BOB M. GASSAWAY

RAYMONDVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The pay is only $3 a week with room and board, but 10 Texas college students have given up their summer vacations to build a church in this south Texas town.

In addition to building the church, the students conduct revival services in the Raymondville area and lead regular services here of the First Baptist church and Primera Iglesia Bautista — Spanish for First Baptist church. It is a new structure for the Spanish church that they are building.

Student Union

The students are members of the Baptist Student Union which has 55,000 members on campuses of 68 Texas colleges.

"I wouldn't work this hard for money," says Jeff Crossland, 21, a senior history major at North Texas State University.

"Actually, there is pay in this job," Crossland says, "but the pay isn't money: it's a richly rewarding experience."

The students have made a strong impression on local residents.

Stanley Addington, a member of the building committee and owner of a department store, says, "They have restored my faith in the youth of America. I read about teen-agers involved in drunken brawls and about immorality on the college campuses, but these kids have given me a new insight on a new breed of American youth which is on the horizon."

Share Parsonage

The students — six young men and four girls — are from 19 to 25 years old. They share what once was the First Baptist parsonage. The boys sleep on bunk beds in one room and the girls have double beds in the rear of the house.

The boys handle most of the work on the church — often working 15 hours a day — while the girls feed the crew and keep work clothes clean.

Betty Ann Gunstream, a junior at Baylor University, wasn't content with housework though.

"The first week, I went out and dug ditches with the boys, and I've painted some," she said.

"I didn't dig any ditches, but my shovel was a broom and my wheelbarrow was a dustpan," reported Patsy Blum, a senior majoring in history at Tarleton State College.

Foundation Hardest

The digging of 750 feet of ditches for the foundation was the hardest part of the job.

A professional was called to lay the first 4,000 concrete blocks, and the students stepped in to lay the final blocks and do the rest of the work.

The Rev. Bill McDaniel, pastor of the church, is the building foreman. He once was a carpenter.

"I came here 4½ years ago with the idea in mind of building this church, and it has been a dream of mine," he said. "It wouldn't have been possible without the help of the students."

The 400 x 150 foot lot for the new church cost $6,000. Total cost is about $22,000. The building and land are worth about $40,000.

First Baptist has contributed $11,000 for the building fund, and the Baptist General Convention of Texas donated $6,000.

$100 Contributions

Mike Lundy said the Wilshire Baptist church in Dallas has agreed to contribute $100 a month for a year to the project, "and we're hoping other churches will contribute also."

Lundy, 24, and his wife, Jan Lundy, 23, are the only married people in the group.

Both are graduates of Texas Tech. Mike is a student at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

Of Raymondville's 10,000 population, about 8,000 are of Mexican ancestry. Of the 10,000, First Baptist estimates 6,500 persons do not attend any church.

Primera Bautista — in operation about 30 years — now has 80 members. Services are held in a dilapidated residence.

The summer of hard work hasn't dampened the enthusiasm of the students. Judy Webb, a junior at East Texas State College said:

"The work isn't nearly so hard if you know why you are doing it, and believe firmly in that purpose," she said.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

". . . Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

From the time those words were uttered by Jesus until now, dedicated men have been following His command, despite language barriers. Today the Holy Scriptures have been translated in whole or part into 1216 languages.

This monumental accomplishment is being carried even farther forward today by at least 3000 translators whose faith has led them to every part of the world to learn languages and dialects. Often under the direst circumstances they work on translations and revisions for peoples in the most isolated areas of the world. Bible societies throughout the world print and distribute these Bibles. Today the Holy Words appear in the tongues of 97 percent of the world's population.

96th Year for Congregation At Woodville

SHERWOOD — The 96th anniversary of the founding of St. John Evangelical Lutheran congregation, Town of Woodville, will be celebrated Sunday with two services.

The 9 a.m. devotions will be conducted by the Rev. Paul Eggert. Guest speaker for the 7:45 p.m. communion service will be the Rev. Arnold Tiefel, pastor of Bethel Lutheran Church, Menasha.

The first missionary to preach in Woodville was the Rev. C. F. Waldt who was serving the Menasha missions in 1860. In 1871 after several years of conducting services in the home of Christian Luckow, a church was built. The present church was dedicated in 1886 and the congregation, made up mostly of German immigrants supported a school, built in 1889, for many years. The building still stands just north of the church.

Located three miles north of here, the church serves a large rural area, covering Sherwood, Dundas and Forest Junction.

Four-Day Retreat Set For Young Adults at Lutherdale Bible Camp

A retreat for young adults will be sponsored Sept. 4 through 7 at Lutherdale Bible Camp, seven miles north of Elkhorn, by the Wisconsin - Illinois Bi-State Lutheran Young Adults.

The Rev. Wallace Hunstad, pastor of Trinity Church, Green Bay, will be speaker and Bible study leader. Theme of the camp will be "God, the Bible and You."

Miss Kay Parfitt, 928 W. Grant St., Appleton, is registrar for the retreat. Norm Dregne, Green Bay, is dean. The young adults group is open to single persons of 18 years or older.

Film to be Shown on Christian Athletes at Appleton Church Hall

"Play for Keeps," a motion picture featuring outstanding Christian athletes, will be shown at 9:15 a.m. and 8:15 p.m. Sunday in the Fellowship Hall of First English Lutheran Church.

The showing, open free to the public, is one of a weekly series presented by the church.

Teen-agers will be spotlighted in a double-feature presentation at the same hours Aug. 30. Scheduled to be shown is "Teenage Conflict" and "Teen-ager's Parents."

Mrs. Reynolds to Help Husband Campaign in Gubernatorial Race

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Something new will be added to campaign styles when the First Lady of Wisconsin hits the vote-seeking trail with a vigorous schedule of personal appearances and speeches. Mrs John W Reynolds has laid out an impressive campaign itinerary, and appears likely to become the first state executive's wife to campaign in a formal way.

Wives of other recent Wisconsin governors found that they could not avoid an occasional public appearance on behalf of their husbands and in deference to their quasi-official positions.

But capitol reporters don't remember another who ever stumped in the serious way that Mrs. Reynolds' campaign tour schedule now calls for.

The number of members of the state senate assured of new four year terms in the fall elections in the fall has grown to three.

A prospective challenger of Sen. Jerris Leonard of Bayside, Republican policy committee chairman in the State Senate, has been disqualified because of defective nominating petitions.

The other uncontested senators are Walter Hollander, Fond du Lac county Republican, Martin J. Schreiber, Milwaukee Democrat.

* * *

William C Hansen, Stevens Point, retired president of the state college there, wanted to run for the state assembly two years ago, but changed his mind He is now filed as a Democratic candidate for the State Senate, in a district embracing central Wisconsin territory that has shown a Republican voting pattern.

* * *

A proposal for a revision of telephone rates in metropolitan Milwaukee County would eliminate toll charges between city and suburbs and between suburbs is likely to be stalled in a serious internal dispute about technicalities within the public service commission.

* * *

The criticism by three Republican members of the State Building Commission about the continued growth of the state debt occasioned by the regular approval of big new construction programs at state institutions in the first such policy disagreement.

It probably shows, according to capitol observers, a growing sensitivity among Republicans about the expenditure and debt issue which some of them would like to exploit against the Democratic administration

But the Republican commissioners cannot agree among themselves As Assemblyman Paul Alfonsi, Minocqua put it, the alternative to building larger buildings and more of them on state college and university campuses is limiting enrollment. That would probably be a more delicate issue, in terms of political reaction, than the fact that the debt total will soon reach $200 million without any sign that it is likely to be halted even at that unprecedented level

Weather Will Wax Wet; Why? Wain, of Course

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The weekend's weather for much of the nation looked wet today.

The same elements that have drenched parched lands from Oklahoma to the Great Lakes spawned windy thunderstorms in northeastern Texas and Arkansas

Funnel clouds were spotted in Texas south of Fort Worth, the weather bureau said. A twister touched the ground yesterday in open country east of Oklahoma City

Meanwhile, in the Caribbean Sea, the year's first hurricane, Cleo, charged toward the Leeward Islands.

Official reports of recent rains in the Midwest run up to four inches, the Weather Bureau said.

Rain also moved eastward as 1.14 inches fell in Buffalo, N Y, and 1 35 inches in Bradford, Pa

Meanwhile, the West enjoyed clear skies except along the Pacific Coast, where fog formed Fair to partly cloudy weather was expected for the Central Plains

Scattered showers and thundershowers were forecast for much of the Great Lakes area and across the South

2 Brothers Die In Refrigerator

ISLAND PARK, N Y (AP) — An abandoned refrigerator yielded the bodies of two young brothers Friday night

"As soon as I saw that refrigerator, I got this strange feeling," said Patrolman Robert Halvorsen The refrigerator was in the family's garage

George Mayerhofer, 7, and his brother, Joseph, 5, had suffocated Their bodies were covered with scratches, indicating they fought to get out after the door clicked shut and they realized they were trapped.

Escapees From Green Bay Are Back in Custody

STEVENS POINT (AP)— Three men who escaped four days earlier from the Wisconsin Reformatory near Green Bay were picked up Friday by Portage County sheriff's deputies

Leland Slater, 30, Amherst, and Donald Haessly, 25, Stevens Point., were arrested at the home of a friend just outside Stevens Point

Leo Rausche, 22, of Kenosha was taken into custody about a mile from the home.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Thanks to the lady who suggested using old nylon stockings for scouring out the bath tub It not only scours better than anything we have tried but also saves on cleansers

Heloise

We have found other uses for the stockings since her suggestion

Put a sponge in a stocking for washing your walls or car

For washing hard-to-reach places, put a sponge in the toe of a stocking up over the yardstick in against the sponge and pull the stocking up over the yardstick—grasping the stocking and the end of the yardstick. One never loses the sponge—and you have the abrasive action of the nylon over the sponge.

It's terrific.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sands

Dear Heloise:

Here is something I have found most helpful when rolling dough:

I put the ball of dough to be rolled onto a sheet of waxed paper Then take plastic wrap such as one would use in wrapping sandwiches and wrap my rolling pin in it Tape the ends tightly No messy surfaces to clean up and no fussing with a sticky rolling pin

Mrs. Edith M. Bowen

* * *

Dear Heloise:

I found that I wasn't fastening my seat belt most of the time The buckle had damaged a coat, and I didn't want to take a chance of damaging more clothes

So I put an inch-thick piece of foam rubber, twelve-by-six inches, under the belt and buckle Now I'm back in the habit of using my seat belt

Margaret Hellyer

* * *

Dear Heloise:

Dry powder cleansers have several large holes in the top of the can to sift the contents The holes are so large that they put out an excess amount of cleanser.

I lift off the adhesive paper on the top of the can, cut the paper in half diagonally then put one piece back over the holes

This allows the cleanser to come out through only two holes, which gives me enough of the powder to do the work and the can of cleanser lasts much longer

Mary Freeman

* * *

Dear Heloise:

Since breadboards are expensive to buy, I purchased a leftover piece of Formica for less than a dollar.

It is very practical and convenient and the shiny surface is easy to clean.

Mrs. H.

* * *

Dear Heloise:

If you have traverse rods with two loose-hanging cords, cut the cords off so they are out of the reach of small children

I came into a room and found my three-year-old with one of these cords wrapped around his neck It wasn't choking him but it easily could have been.

I took hold of the two cords at the spot where I thought I should cut them I then opened and closed the curtain so I was sure the cords wouldn't be too short

Then I slipped the tips on the cords above this spot, tied a knot in the cord, let the tip slide back, and cut the cord below the knot

A simple job such as this could prevent a tragedy

Mrs. Dale Saunders

* * *

Dear Heloise:

For those easily scattered playthings, such as clay, marbles, checkers, and crayons Paint several cigar boxes (all but the outer bottom) with inexpensive enamel, and with a felt tip ink marker label each box with its contents

These boxes stack neatly and give my children instant access to their games, etc Each box can be left out until ready to put up the game, and they are easy to re-store.

For card games, such as Old Maid, Snap, etc, we used a metal file box (such as is used for kitchen recipes) Educational flash cards fit wonderfully in this box, too.

Your Problems

Confession Good for the Soul; Guilt Haunts Man 30 Years

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hold a somewhat prominent position, enjoy a comfortable income, an active social life, have a wonderful family— everything a man could ask for, but —

Ann Landers

Thirty years ago, out west, I was involved in a hit and run accident. I was driving a pickup truck on a country road and came over the crest of a hill A small child was playing in the road and I hit her I was so terrified and confused I kept on going—out of the state across the country To this day I don't know if I killed that child or not

For years I saw the little girl's face in my dreams. I was tortured and miserable. Gradually those feelings left me and I was able to adjust to a normal life But it is all coming back to me in a strange way I now have a granddaughter When I look at her I see the face of that little girl in the road

Should I go back and confess and perhaps destroy everything I have built up these past 30 years? I never told my wife about the incident and I'm not sure what her feelings would be I'm asking for your guidance — I E M

Dear I.E.M : You will be a tortured conscience the rest of your life unless you square yourself with God and man.

First tell your wife, then see a lawyer. He will instruct you.

Judges have been lenient in similar cases, and your record of the past 30 years will help you.

Please let me know how this turns out.

* *

DEAR ANN LANDERS. I am a 14-year-old girl and my problem will probably shock you.

My brother Terry is almost nine years old He is a smarty pants little kid who is always trying to wheedle special privileges from my mother and he usually succeeds

Terry has a bad habit of needing to wash his hands every five minutes when I am in the bathtub When I complain to my mother she says I am being silly and I should stop picking on my brother

We have no lock on our bathroom door and mother won't put one on because she says it is "dangerous"

I don't have anyone I can talk to about my problem so will you please help me. Ann Landers?—Brother Trouble

Dear Trouble: Is there no kitchen sink in which your brother can wash his hands when he gets those sudden attacks of cleanliness?

If your mother believes a lock on the door can be dangerous, may I suggest a simple dime-store hook, the type on screen porches? It will provide you with the privacy a 14-year-old girl should have.

DEAR ANN My husband's family has never accepted me because I am not of their religion I tried for five years to make peace, but failed

When his mother or one of his sisters calls long distance it's always a person-to-person call to him. There are only the two of us here (and the dog) which means they don't want to talk to me Yet, in the middle of the conversation my husband will say, "Just a minute, Jeanette wants to talk to you" I then have to make small talk and it burns me up They are ill at ease at the other end, just as I am, so what is accomplished? Nothing, but a bigger phone bill I've asked my husband repeatedly not to do this to me, but it doesn't help

What's the solution?—Provoked J

Dear J: The minute such a call comes in, take the dog for a walk. Tell your husband now that you plan to do this so he will not feel you are sneaking out on him.

* * *

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Saturday, Aug. 22, 1964 A-4

Frank Mestnik, former Marquette University grider is expected to open at fullback for the Green Bay Packers tonight in their Shrine game against Chicago's Bears in Milwaukee. Mestnik took over for the injured Jim Taylor last Saturday against the New York Giants and had a big ground-gaining night.

Packers, Bears Will Square Off Before 47,000 Tonight

Taylor Expected to See Some Action; Bays Eye Revenge

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service

MILWAUKEE — The Packers and the Bears play for fun. . . and charity in the 15th annual shrine classic in County Stadium tonight

Pro football's oldest rivalry won't exactly explode, since (1) The real winner will be the Shrine hospitals and (2) The long-time rivals will launch their 45th season in the National Football League in only three weeks.

Regardless, a crowd of about 47,000 will witness the game and the colorful pre-game and between-halves Shrine ceremonies. Kickoff is set for 8.05.

The reaction of the two clubs to each other will be an interesting side - bar to tonight's clash.

Take Title Away

The Bears took the Packers' championships (western and world) away last year and they beat Green Bay twice, 10-3, in Green Bay and, 26-7, in Chicago. The Packers can't help but try to seek out the "secret" of the Bears tonight while Chicago likely will play it with great nonchalance.

This will be a "new" experience for two Packer veterans—Bart Starr and Paul Hornung. Starr missed the big rematch in Chicago last year due to his broken hand while Hornung missed the last four Bear games—the three in '63 due to the suspension and the nightcap in '62 because of injury.

The return of Hornung, of course, will be closely watched by Milwaukee fandom—not to mention the Bears, who feel the Packers will be improved over '63 if Hornung makes a strong comeback.

Will Play Flanker

Hornung's sidekick, Jim Taylor, is expected to play some but he won't be at top efficiency because of his back injury. In addition, Tom Moore won't be employed as a running back because of his tender shoulder. If Moore plays, he'll work at flanker behind Boyd Dowler.

The major rushing load will fall on Frank Mestnik, who did so well in the 34-7 win over the Giants last Saturday night, the speedy Elijah Pitts, and Hornung—plus rookies Dwain Bean and Dennis Claridge.

Coach Vince Lombardi plans to play it just as he did against the Giants. Everybody on the 47-man squad will get a chance to play. The roster must be cut to 45 by next Tuesday.

Starr, Zeke Bratkowski and possibly even Claridge will be facing the best defense in the league—a unit that allowed only an average of 10 points per game last year. The group will be intact with the exception of Ed O'Bradovich, the defensive end who is injured.

The Bear offense, with the deaths of Willie Galimore and John Farrington and injuries, has been slow coming around. Bill Wade is the quarterback, as usual, but the club is still "working" on a replacement for Galimore, who changed off with Ronnie Bull. Ronnie has done just about all of the left-halfbacking in the wins over the College All-Stars and Redskins.

Probably unable to play again will be Rick Casares, who has a foot injury. The Bears' top fullback hasn't been in action yet and the fullbacking has been shared by Joe Marconi and Charlie Bivins.

Farrington's spot at left end has been shared by Gary Barnes, the ex-Packer and Cowboy, and Rich Kreitling, the former Brown. Kreitling has been hurt but will make his debut against the Bays. Both of them also spell Johnny Morris at Flanker.

Brooks Robinson and Bowens Pace Orioles Past White Sox, 4-2

Baltimore Regains Lead; Yanks Fall 5 Games Off Pace

BY DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Brooks Robinson speaks softly and Sam Bowens seldom but they know how to make pitchers' ears ring.

Robinson, Baltimore's American League MVP candidate, started a pair of arguments with Chicago mound stars Friday night and, with rookie Bowens backing him each time, the Orioles hung out the White Sox 4-2 and regained the league lead.

The quiet men cuffed southpaw Juan Pizarro for back-to-back homers in the fourth inning, then broke up a 2-2 tie in the ninth with successive run-scoring singles off knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm. The pair, filling the breach left by Boog Powell's wrist injury, accounted for two-thirds of the Orioles' six-hit attack.

Baltimore, having taken the opener of a four-game set between the flag contenders, owns a half-game margin over the Sox, who had won their last five in a row, including four straight over the fading New York Yankees.

Lose Fifth in Row

The defending champs lost their fifth straight, a 7-0 humiliation to Boston, and dropped five games off the pace. Detroit rode Don Demeter's slugging to a 4-1 decision over Minnesota and Kansas City edged Washington 3-2 on Rocky Colavito's two-run homer. The Cleveland-Los Angeles Angels game was rained out.

Robinson, the Orioles' unsung team leader for four seasons, remained on course toward a banner year. The home run was his 21st, two short of his 1962 career high. The tie-breaking single gave him 81 runs batted in and the club lead over Powell, who had 80 when he crashed a wall in Boston Thursday and cracked a bone in his left wrist

Bowens, who narrowly avoided serious injury a day before Powell was hurt when he caught an Earl Wilson fastball in the jaw, socked his 17th homer and drove in his 50th and 51st runs Inserted into the regular line-up midway through the season, Sam has been hitting at a .300 clip ever since.

Hinkle's 4-Run Homer Paces Quad Cities

Al Hinkle's grand slam homer in the sixth inning and John Fenderson's 2-run homer in the seventh paced the Quad Cities Angels to a 13-5 win over Cedar Rapds.

The Angels, however, lost ground in their bid for the Midwest League's second round pennant as the Fox Cities Foxes won both ends of a doubleheader to increase their lead to four games.

Barbara McIntire, Miss Gunderson Meet for Title

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Former champions Barbara McIntire and JoAnne Gunderson, two golfers who never have played each other before, met today for the silver champion's cup in the 64th U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Tournament.

Miss Gunderson, three-time winner from Kirkland, Wash., defeated Mrs. Pete Dye of Indianapolis 5 and 4 in one semifinal round and Miss McIntire, the 1959 winner from Colorado Springs, won 3 and 1 over Robbye King of Norfolk, Va.

Grid Cardinals Hand Colts 30-21 Loss

Display Strong Defense Before 32,000 at Home

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis football Cardinals read an old story — "the best offense is a good defense" — loud and clear to the Baltimore Colts Friday night.

St. Louis used a blocked field goal, two intercepted passes and a recovered fumble to set up three touchdowns and a field goal for a 30-21 National Football League exhibition victory over the Colts.

The Cardinals' blasting defense held the Colts to only 17 yards rushing before a packed house of 32,000 home town fans. It was the first home game for the team since the front office decided not to move to Atlanta.

"They put a lot of pressure on our passers," said Baltimore Coach Don Shula. "We didn't have enough time to throw the football."

2 Aerial Touchdowns

But, passing was the only way the Colts could find to move.

They picked up 234 yards passing, including two touchdowns, both on 42-yard pass plays. The other Baltimore touchdown came on a two-yard run.

Cardinal linebacker Dale Meinert set up a 13-7 halftime lead when he intercepted a pass and returned it 26 yards to the four-yard line of the Colts Quarterback Charley Johnson flipped the ball to Sonny Randle through the center for the touchdown

Dick Dean, a rookie, recovered a fumbled punt early in the second half on the Baltimore 12 to set up another score

Then, another rookie, Ken Kortas, blocked a field goal at-

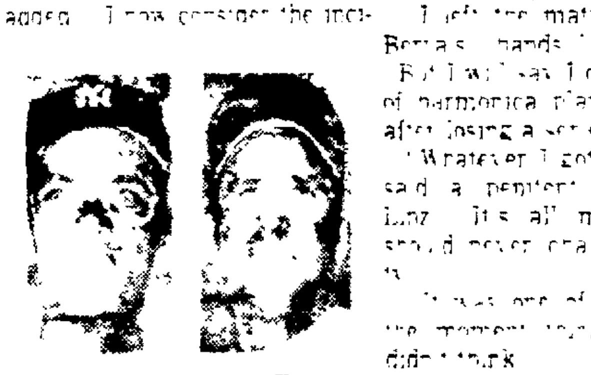
Berra Fines Linz for Harmonica 'Serenade'

BY BOB HOOBING

BOSTON (AP) — Yogi Berra hopes for improved New York team spirit after fining Phil Linz for the first open defiance of a Yankee manager since Babe Ruth's 1925 rebellion.

A subdued Linz admitted Friday night he deserved the $200 levy for playing half a dozen notes of "Mary Had a Little Lamb" on the harmonica after Yogi had ordered him to stop.

Berra announced his disciplinary action after a closed-door session with Linz. He said the player was not surprised and added, "I now consider the incident closed." The affair did not approach the proportions of Ruth's [illegible] with Manager Miller Huggins when the Babe's [illegible] drew a $5,000 fine and [illegible] from [illegible].



Linz Berra

On Bench Friday

Linz was on the bench Friday night as the Yankees ran their losing streak to five, bowing 7-0 to Boston.

"I'm sorry it happened, naturally," Berra said. "Since it has, maybe something good will come of it. I hope so, the way things have been going.

"You know I can get very mad. This thing really set me off. I had no choice but to fine Linz."

Ralph Houk, New York general manager, had been called by Berra late Thursday night. Houk was in town and consulted with Berra Friday but was not present at the Yogi-Linz confrontation.

Entirely Up to Yogi

"I left the matter entirely in Berra's hands," Houk said. "But I will say I do not approve of harmonica playing on a bus after losing a series like that."

"Whatever I got I deserved," said a penitent, gum-chewing Linz. "It's all my fault. You should never challenge authority.

"It was one of those spur of the moment things and I just didn't think.

"[illegible] Mr. Berra I was sorry."

"It's just making a mountain out of a molehill," muttered one Yankee.

But a source close to the club disagreed, saying:

"This could have been a [illegible] matter if Yogi hadn't stepped in. If a utility man like Linz had gotten away with it, then how would Berra handle any regular who stepped out of line?"

Foxes Sweep Pair, Launch Final Home Stay Tonight

Increase ML Lead to 4 Games; Fred Beene and Jerry Glass Notch Victories in Relief

WATERLOO, Ia. — The Fox Cities Foxes swept both ends of a doubleheader from the Waterloo Hawks here Friday night, 4-3, in nine innings and 7-4, in seven frames, to increase their Midwest League lead to four games over second place Quad Cities.

The Foxes return home tonight to open their final home stand of the season against the Dubuque Packers at Goodland Field.

The Foxes drew first blood in the lid-lifter with a run in the fourth. Singles by Fred Rico, who extended his hitting streak to 16 games before losing it on 0-for-3 in the nightcap, Mike Gannon and John Sepich produced the score. The Hawks scored in the bottom of the inning for a 1-1 count.

John Matias homered over the left field fence, about 350-feet away, in the fifth. The Hawks tied the count on a single by Bob Montgomery and triple by John Maddox in the sixth to force extra innings.

Rico singled in the eighth and was sacrificed to second by Steve Huntz. Ray Woitkowski scored Rico but Len Patinsky's solo homer in the bottom of the eighth tied the count at 3.

Bob Lewandowski doubled to left with one down in the ninth.

Lewandowski B. Matias

John Matias flied out and Dave May was walked intentionally. Rico singled in Lewandowski for the winning run. Fred Beene was credited with his 11th win in 15 decisions.

The Hawks scored twice in cap on Jerry Dorsch's 2-run homer. The Foxes tied the count in the fourth with a pair. Huntz survived on an error. Burrows walked and Gannon, pinch-hitting for starter Tim Sommer, singled to load the bases. Bob Lewandowski's double to left scored the pair.

The Foxes went ahead in the top of the fifth when May singled and Rico sacrificed him to second. Huntz was passed intentionally and both advanced on a wild pitch by Ron Klimkowski. John Sepich singled to center to score the two runs.

Van Rushing's lead-off homer sparked a 2-run fifth inning for the Hawks to knot the count at 4.

Bob Matias greeted reliever Chico Perez in the top of the sixth with a solo homer for a 5-4 lead. Lewandowski followed with a single and Dave May walked. Huntz doubled to left-center, scoring Lewandowski and May for a 7-4 count

Former Fox Cities Foxes' star "Boog" Powell, now playing for the Baltimore Orioles, is shown in a doctor's office as he waits for an examination of his injured left wrist. Dr. James Brooks said X-rays indicated the injury may not be as bad as first indicated, which occurred when Powell ran into the left field wall in Boston. Boog may have only suffered a small chip in a bone, according to the doctor, who scheduled another examination for Monday. (AP Wirephoto)

Cloninger Throws 3-Hitter But Loses

Two Fielding Mistakes Lead To Colts' 3-2 Win Over Braves

HOUSTON (AP)—Two fielding failures offset brilliant three-hit pitching by Tony Cloninger Friday night and the Milwaukee Braves were defeated 3-2 by the Houston Colts.

Cloninger and the Braves were hurt most by Gene Oliver's fumble, which set the stage for two Houston runs The Colts got another run when neither Lee Maye nor Rico Carty was able to catch a long drive that fell in the outfield for a hit

Cloninger didn't surrender a hit until he had one out in the sixth. He allowed only two walks and fanned a half dozen of the Colts. He was charged with his 12th defeat against a dozen victories.

Goes Distance

Cloninger went the distance, as did Colt starter Ken Johnson, who won his ninth in 22 decisions. Johnson was banged for eight hits but posted nine strikeouts and didn't issue a pass.

Johnson retired the first five Braves he faced before Oliver cracked his 10th home run of the season in Milwaukee's two-run second. Carty came along with a single and scored on a triple by Denis Menke.

Oliver got the first of his two singles in the fourth and Carty singled behind him. But they were left stranded. Maye's double in the fifth was wasted and from then on the Braves got only one runner into scoring position.

The Colts' first hit was a single by Jerry Grote, who has a .155 plate average, in the sixth. Houston bunched all of its runs in the next inning.

Nellie Fox singled leading off and then Walt Bond walked with one out. Fox scored when Bob Aspromonte's drive deep to left center eluded Carty and Maye and fell for a double.

Eddie Kasko was given an intentional walk to fill the bases and set up a doubleplay situation The strategy appeared sound when Carroll Hardy bounced an easy one to Oliver, but he muffed it and Bond scored the tying run. Grote's sacrifice fly scored Aspromonte with the deciding run before Johnson struck out.

The defeat kept the Braves in a fifth-place tie with Pittsburgh Denny Lemaster, 13 and 8, faced Skinny Brown, 2 and 12, in tonight's game

'Boog' Powell's Injury Possibly Small Bone Chip

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles, contending for the American League pennant, got a glimmer of hope Friday from a doctor who said that Boog Powell's wrist injury doesn't look as bad as indicated originally.

But the final word won't be known until Monday when Powell is to return for another examination by Dr. James Brooks.

After looking at an X-ray taken through bandages, Dr. Brooks said that the 23-year-old slugger may have suffered only a small chip in a bone in his left wrist at Boston Thursday.

Before venturing an estimate on how long it would take to heal, the orthopedic surgeon said he wanted first to examine the X-rays taken in Boston before the wrist was bandaged.

Dr. Brooks said he may then want to have more X-rays of the [illegible] wrist.

The first report after Powell smashed into the left field wall in Boston was that he would be unable to play for a month.

Boy, 15, Dies After Opening Grid Practice

DENVER (AP) — A 15-year-old boy lapsed into a coma at the opening session of high school football practice Thursday night and was dead three hours later.

Doctors at Mercy Hospital said Edward Balkenbush died of massive hemorrhaging on the right side of the brain, caused by a congenital defect of a blood vessel in the brain

Death could have come at any time, the doctors said

The youth, trying for the team at Mullen High School, had completed a series of sprints and exercises

The coach, Bill Rickey, said Balkenbush then ran 200 yards to the track and complained of an upset stomach. The boy sat down, took off his helmet and lapsed into a coma

Phillies Win, 2-0; Giants Slip to Third

San Francisco Bows to Cards; New York Mets Wallop Cubs

BY MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Al Dark pulled the trigger once too often in his gambling game of Russian Roulette.

Dark's slumping San Francisco Giants lost their sixth straight game, 6-5 to St. Louis Friday night, with the help of an intentional walk that put the tying run on base.

The defeat dropped the Giants into third place in the National League, the first time they've been lower than second since the first week of the season. They stand one game behind Cincinnati and 8½ back of league-leading Philadelphia.

Elsewhere in the NL, Philadelphia blanked Pittsburgh 2-0, Cincinnati edged Los Angeles 3-2, New York walloped Chicago 7-0 and Houston nipped Milwaukee 3-2.

On four previous occasions this year, Dark daringly violated the generally accepted baseball strategy of NOT putting the winning run o base intentionally. Each time, though, that Dark's pitchers walked the winning run to first base, the Giants ran away with a victory.

But his latest attempt failed miserably. With the Giants leading 5-3 in the ninth inning, Lou Brock at second and two out, Dark pulled the trigger — and Bill White walked to first.

Dark felt the bullet minutes later.

After the walk, Dal Maxvill singled to left field, bringing in Brock and putting White at second. Mike Shannon followed with another single, this one a grounder that second baseman Hal Lanier managed to stop on the outfield grass.

White raced home with the tying run, and Maxvill scampered into third. Lanier, meanwhile, fired the ball to the plate, but he was off balance, and the ball sailed wildly past catcher Tom Haller.

Winning Run Scores

Maxvill dashed home with the winning run.

Home runs by Jim Hart and Orlando Cepeda had helped the Giants to their 5-3 lead. Hart connected with one on in a three-run first inning while Cepeda drove his 25th homer in the third. Ken Boyer batted in the Cardinals' first three runs with a double and a single.

Chris Short scattered seven hits, winning his 13th game in 19 decisions as the Phillies posted their fourth straight victory. The league-leaders picked up a run in the second when Alex Johnson singled, took second on a balk by Pirates' pitcher Bob Veale and scored on Tony Taylor's single.

Johnny Callison drove in the other run in the eighth with a single.

The Reds won their fifth straight behind the brilliant relief pitching of Bill McCool. The rookie hurled the last 6 2-3 innings, allowing only one hit, striking out nine and permitting only one Dodger to reach third.

Starter Jim Maloney drove in two Red runs with a second-inning double, then scored the third on a bunt single by Chico Ruiz.

The Mets also won their fifth straight and tied the longest winning streak in their three-year history. They won five in a row in May, 1963.

Jack Fisher scattered seven hits in going the distance, marking the fifth consecutive complete game for the Mets' pitching staff. No other team in the majors has performed that feat this season.

Venturi, Collins Lead at Akron

Pair Tied at 137; Palmer Skies to 73 and 141 Total

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Ken Venturi, golf's comeback candidate of the year, and Bill Collins, struggling to overcome back difficulties, shared the second round lead in the $50,000 American Golf Classic Friday.

Venturi, whose career nearly ended when he suffered a muscle spasm in the back two years ago, shot the best round of the tournament Friday, a 33-33—66 for a 137 total.

Collins, who had a spinal disc removed from his back one year ago and then had to withdraw from the Western Open three weeks ago with more back ailments, shot a 32-35—67.

Venturi, the U.S. Open champion played picture golf. He started using a new driver for the first time in seven years at the Western Open in Chicago and apparently got the feel of it as he missed only two fairways in a round which included four birdies.

Collins had three birdies, all on the front nine, including one on a 67-foot chip shot. Neither of the leaders had a bogey.

Mason Rudolph shot a 33-35—68 for a total of 138 and was the only other player to complete 36 holes under par.

Masters champion Arnold Palmer, first round leader with a 68, slumped to a 37-36—73 as he three-putted four greens That placed Palmer in a tie for fifth, four strokes off the pace and one shot behind Tony Lema, who had a 36-35—71 for a 140 total.

Jack Nicklaus, the year's leading money winner, forged into contention with a 34-35—69 and 142 total. Nicklaus was one of seven who broke par Friday despite having two three-putt greens.

PGA champion Bobby Nichols, who will join Venturi, Palmer and Lema in next month's World Series of Golf, continued struggling with the 7,165-yard course after shooting a 75 Thursday. Nichols had a 38-39—77 in the second round of the 72-hole tournament for a 152 total.

He Wanted to Make Good

Ted Fritsch Remembers Lipscomb As One Who Always Went All Out

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Brawny Ted Fritsch wrinkled his massive brow in thought, pushed his baseball-type cap back above the hairline and began, "The one thing I remember about him was that he wanted to make good so bad it hurt. He was a real high strung guy—always on edge. When he put that football suit on, he'd tackle his mother."

Ted, whose name is mentioned in the same breath with that of Clarke Hinkle and incumbent Jim Taylor among Green Bay's fullback greats, was soberly reminiscing about ex-teammate Paul Lipscomb, the giant tackle from Tennessee who was stricken by a fatal heart attack early Thursday morning at the age of 41.

"They say you take it easy against your teammates in scrimmage," Fritsch went on, then shook his head for emphasis "Not with Lipscomb — he used to beat the hell out of you. It was never half-way with him, calisthenics or exercise or what it was.

Broke Girard's Wrist

"I remember after Jug Girard was traded to the Lions and we played them down at State Fair Park in Milwaukee. Lip tackled him—and I mean, he tackled him. Jug was on his way out of bounds, but Lip finished him up and he broke Girard's wrist. It was an incident like what happened with Bart Starr and Jimmy Hill at St. Louis last year. That was the way Lip was—he always played it to the hilt.

"I'll never be convinced that Lipscomb was a dirty football player, though. He wasn't dirty —just eager. He used to get a lot of penalties for charging before the ball was snapped or belting somebody after the whistle, but the players never resented it. We felt bad because a play was called back, but we knew he couldn't help it. He felt bad himself and tried to overcome it.

"I can see Lambeau in those dressing rooms," Ted mused, a smile crinkling his broad features. "He'd be giving us the old fire and brimstone and he'd turn to Lipscomb and say, 'Now, Paul, just watch it a little bit today.' And, you know, that wasn't like Curly. Everybody tried to help the guy."

Everything Serious

"Everything was serious to him. You get a guy like that with some guys who've been around and you can have a picnic," Fritsch added, chuckling gently at the memory. "We were all kind of close—Ed Neal, Damon Tassos, Lip and myself. We used to go out behind Rockwood Lodge and shoot at seagulls. Neal and Tassos were pretty good hunters and Lip wanted to be.

"He was a kind of a gullible guy, I remember. One day, Neal shot one of those mud ducks and Tassos and I cleaned it. We told him, 'Lip, this is really it.' He liked to eat wild game so he took it home to his wife—they were living in the Savoy apartments on the East Side then, I think.

"So his wife stuck it in the oven and baked it. I guess everybody in the apartment house came pounding on their door to find out what that awful smell was," Ted said, his imposing midsection shaking with silent laughter.

"The minute he slammed that car door the next day out at Rockwood, Neal, Tassos and I all headed in different directions —we knew what was coming 'What were you guys trying to do to me?' he growled. 'We couldn't even sleep in the apartment that night.'

"Neal used to drive him nuts," Ted added with a grin "He used to wire up his bed with a 1-cell battery. Then when he opened his door, he'd get a shock from the knob. Being so high strung, he always let out a big yell.

Helluva Player

Fritsch, who next Monday begins priming his Premontre Cadets for the 1964 Fox Valley Catholic Conference football season, paused and reflected with a touch of nostalgia, "He was a helluva football player I've been tackled by lots of guys: but I got hit as hard by Lipscomb in scrimmage as anybody ever hit me in the league. He never just got an arm around you—he had that shoulder into you. And when you get 260 pounds behind that shoulder, it's quite a jolt.

"Then you'd see him handle his two little kids—they both were the spitting image of him —and you couldn't believe a guy that tough could be so gentle. He was just like butter with them."

Colt quarterback Johnny Unitas had a rough time with the Cardinals' passing rush and played only a little more than a half. Quarterback Gary Cuozzo tossed both touchdown passes for Baltimore.

St Louis is 2-1 for the exhibition season and the Colts are 1-1-1.

Report Perch Hitting on Winnebago

MADISON (AP) — Jumbo perch are biting in Lake Winnebago while bass and panfish are providing most of the action for Wisconsin fishermen, the State Conservation Department said Wednesday. There also is some musky action.

The Lake Winnebago perch were going after hellgramites and worms, and the best panfishing was in Trempealeau County.

A seven-pound largemouth bass was taken near Cumberland in Barron County.

The best musky fishing was in Sawyer and Price counties. A 32-pounder was landed on Butternut Lake in Price County. The Chippewa River and its west fork were supplying the top action in Sawyer County.

There also were reports of musky action in Roberts and Riley lakes in Forest County, while the bass were hitting in Lucerne, Bradley and Pine

Foyt May Drive Lotus-Ford In Milwaukee '200' Sunday

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A. J. Foyt, the Indianapolis "500" champion who up to now has resisted the trend to the Lotus-Ford, said Friday night he may drive one of the rear-engine cars in a race this Sunday at Milwaukee.

Foyt, who has beaten Lotus drivers in all six of the U.S. Auto Club's top races this year in conventional front engine cars, said he will practice in a Lotus Saturday for two hours at State Fair Park in Milwaukee

Big Car Event

"If I like it, I'll probably run it," Foyt said

Sunday's race is a 200-mile USAC big car event. Also scheduled to run is Parnelli Jones, winner of last year's 500 who switched to the Lotus after losing to Foyt in the 1964 Memorial Day classic.

Foyt, who has almost clinched an unprecedented fourth straight USAC championship with seven races to go, said:

"I feel this is the right time to make the change to a rear engine car I've got the championship almost wrapped up

"They are the fastest and the safest of the rear-engine machines I am definitely going to have one at the Indianapolis Speedway next year."

hit off Pizarro, the league's top winner, until the fourth inning homers. The Sox pecked away against Milt Pappas, scoring once in the sixth on a walk, wild pitch and Floyd Robinson's single and chasing the Baltimore starter in the eighth.

Peters Singles

Gary Peters, the good pitching hitter, singled for Pizarro and Don Buford scored him with a two-out triple. Harvey Haddix replaced Pappas, retired all four batters he faced and picked up his fifth victory.

Luis Aparicio triggered the Orioles' winning rally with a one-out single off Wilhelm and advanced on a walk to Earl Robinson before Brooks Robinson's hit broke the tie and Bowen's single iced it.

Right-hander Bob Heffner tossed a six-hitter at the Yankees and the Red Sox slugged three home runs, including a grand slam by catcher Bob Tillman. Loser Ralph Terry, 5-11, gave up solo homers to Dick Stuart (No. 28) and Ed Bressoud (No. 2). Stan Williams was the victim of Tillman's blast in the eighth.

Demeter drove in three Detroit runs with a single, double and his 16th homer. Gates Brown's 14th homer completed the Tigers' scoring. Dave Wickersham pitched a six-hitter for his 15th victory as Detroit ended the Twins' six-game winning streak.

Colavito's 30th homer capped a three-run KC rally in the fourth inning against left-hander Claude Osteen, who lost his ninth game despite pitching a strong six-hitter. Wayne Causey's triple and a single by Ed Charles preceded Colavito's clout.

Moe Drabowsky relieved A's starter John O'Donoghue in the fifth after John Kennedy's run-producing hit had pulled Washington to within one run and blanked the Senators on two hits the rest of the way. Don Lock hit his 22nd homer for the losers.

Department of Justice Investigating Sale of Yankees to CBS Group

Searches for Violation of Antitrust Act

CHICAGO (AP) — The Department of Justice has apparently begun an investigation into the sale of the New York Yankees to the Columbia Broadcasting System for possible violations of the antitrust act.

President Joe Cronin of the American League confirmed in Boston Friday night that the Justice Department might be looking into the case.

"We had a representative of the Department of Justice call on us the other day," Cronin said, "and explain that in almost all such instances they undertake a preliminary probe of this nature

"We understand they have visited several ball clubs.'

The sale of 80 per cent of the Yankees to CBS last week for $11 2 million brought strong protests from Charles O Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, and Arthur Allyn, owner of the Chicago White Sox.

And it was the controversial Finley who broke the news of the Justice Department investigation Friday night.

Finley fired a telegram to Cronin protesting the investigation and claiming "another sad day for baseball."

Finley said justice department officials questioned him for 2½ hours Friday about the sale, but declined to elaborate on the conversation

Allyn confirmed he had been questioned for two hours Wednesday by department representatives and also protested the investigation, but not to Cronin.

The Chicago office of the justice department confirmed the investigation and said it was acting on orders from its Washington office. The spokesman declined to say whether all baseball club owners were being interviewed.

President Calvin Griffith of the Minnesota Twins said he understood that all American League owners had been contacted by the Justice Department.

Allyn and Finley protested vigorously the telegraphic means by which Cronin received approval from the 10 club owners for transferring the Yankees' stock. Both demanded a league meeting, which Cronin disallowed.

Minnesota's Griffith opposed Finley and Allym.

"They're two of the newest owners in baseball," he said. "We have voted before by teletype and everything else for new owners and on other matters, so there's nothing new about the way we voted.'

Molinaro Wins Senior Match Play Golf Crown

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Frank "Moon" Molinaro of Madison won the Wisconsin Senior Match Play Golf Tournament Friday, defeating Randall Schumann of Madison in 19 holes.

The 55-year-old Molinaro and Schumann, who is 60, both posted 74s and neither ever led by more than a hole in their clash at Tuckaway Country Club.

Molinaro closed out the match with a 60-foot chip shot that put him within a foot of the cup on the first extra hole. He rolled down his putt for a par four while Schumann three-putted from 35 feet for a bogey.

Interchange Badly Needed

The action this week of the Appleton Common Council in pointing out the urgency for the planning and construction of an interchange at the junction of U.S. Highway 41 and West College Avenue (State 125) should not go unheeded by the Wisconsin Highway Commission.

Appleton, the Town of Grand Chute and the Outagamie County Board intend to press for a commitment from the state as to when the much-needed interchange will be programmed

Construction of the new Outagamie County Airport, coupled with the extensive commercial and industrial growth west of the city, make it imperative that the State Highway Commission take a hard look at the already-dangerous intersection.

No one can dispute the need for the interchange at the major intersection, and the state should expedite the programming of such a project before conditions get out of control.

A spokesman for the State Highway Commission says the U.S. 41-College Avenue intersection project is being given consideration for sometime after 1969. This is too late.

Special priority should be given the project because, in this instance, lives and time are of the essence.

Definitions

The words "conservative" and "liberal" have been bandied about so much in the last few decades and especially in this election year that they have generally lost all practical meaning for most Americans. "Liberal" has come to mean either the most esoteric of progressive thinkers or the most dangerous of radicals. A "conservative" is depicted as the only one capable of saving the nation's traditions of freedom and justice or trying to haul us all back to feudalism.

Dr. Henry Wriston, at one time President of Lawrence and more recently connected with the Council on Foreign Relations, offers a good description of what a conservative ought to be even though some of those who consider themselves conservatives may not fit the bill.

"A true conservative does not insist upon the status quo: much less does he seek to reverse the historical process and turn the clock backwards. . . . The function of the true conservative is to assess the historical situation with acuity and penetration. He must avoid starry-eyed optimism that would expect him to brush aside adverse historical forces. He will retain from the past whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are of good report. At the same time, he must energetically exploit the positive opportunities for improvement that experience and the dynamic of history make available. There are tides in the affairs of men which have their flood stages when reform can be carried forward with relative ease."

Of course such a description still leaves the problem of different points of view about those things that are true, just and of good report. Even the churches, from whence came the quotation, have had difficulty in reaching agreement on that. Nor is everyone sincerely concerned in agreement about the flood stages or the reforms needed or required.

Nevertheless the description is a thoughtful one that should help voters this year in assessing the claims made for and by the various candidates. And yet, if Dr. Wriston's words are turned around just a little bit, can not the same description fit the "true liberal"? There would be a difference in emphasis perhaps upon retaining traditions of the past or looking for new methods. But no sincere liberal would state that he would carelessly throw away the lessons of the past or the precedents of history.

We seem to be right back where we started from.

A Child's Way of Life

There is a rather sad little book on the paperback market, written by Jessica Mitford, who caused such a storm last year with The American Way of Death. Her Daughters and Rebels is quite a different book which tells the story of the Mitford sisters, their upbringing in Britain's dying aristocratic society and their various efforts at escape.

Jessica was the second youngest of seven children, six of them girls. She and her sisters were educated almost completely at home by their mother, who presented history according to the good or nasty colors of various nations on the maps, and by a series of oddly qualified governesses. The one Jessica remembers most fondly taught them the intricacies of shoplifting.

The girls grew up in the twenties and thirties when England's social and political life was undergoing far more revolutionary changes than in the United States. One daughter rebelled by writing outrageous novels using members of her family as less than praiseworthy characters. Two became enthralled with home grown fascism (one married Sir Oswald Mosely, England's fascist leader) and that of Hitler's Germany. They even became part of the inner circles of Nazis around Hitler for a time.

Jessica took the other route and embraced, if not communism, as some critics have charged, at least the principles of socialism. She eloped with Esmond Romilly, nephew of Sir Winston Churchill, to take part in the Spanish Civil War.

The humorous aspects of the early years become lost in the adventures with Esmond before Europe was engulfed in the Second World War. Her family's influence was so great that the British government sent a destroyer to get her out of Spain. When that failed, Miss Mitford says the pressure of withdrawing any British help from the Basques opposing Franco was used to make her leave Spain

The Romillys came to the United States apparently primarily so Esmond could escape the British draft in the late 1930's. They drifted irresponsibly through part of the country, mooching off their friends, sneaking into cabins to avoid paying their way, unperturbed by the inconsistency of their dedication to socialism and their acceptance of help and lodging from the wealthy. They had a lovely time until the phony war ended in Europe and Esmond joined the Canadian Air Force in the summer of 1940.

This is, in part, a tragic story. Their baby died and Romilly was killed in action in 1941. Miss Mitford tries to assess blame for their problems and perhaps at the end she finds it.

"Both Esmond and I would have scouted the idea that anything in our conduct was remotely attributable either to heredity or to upbringing for . . . we regarded ourselves as 'self-made' free agents in every respect, the products of our own actions and decisions. Yet our style of behavior during much of our life together, the strong streak of delinquency which I found so attractive in Esmond and which struck such a responsive chord in me, his carefree intransigence . . . are not hard to trace to an English upper class ancestry and upbringing. The qualities of patience, modesty, forebearance and natural self-discipline . . . the instinctive respect for the fundamental dignity of every other human being . . . were on the whole conspicuously lacking in us. . . . Too much security as children, coupled with too much discipline imposed on us from above by force or the threat of force, had developed in us a high degree of wickedness, a sort of extension of childhood naughtiness."

Whatever the causes, it is clear that the Romillys acted as naughty children. And perhaps here is a clue to many of those who become so passionately attached to the catchword type of simple solutions for the various ills of mankind and society. It takes maturity to accept the complexities of life and of government. Such maturity is lacking in many so-called adults who throng hysterically to one or another panacea or its spokesmen

Sherwood Sign Incident Leads To Full Political Discussion

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In reply to the assertions of Mr. Harrison regarding the destruction of the Goldwater sign. In his letter of the 16th he stated that the persons involved were not necessarily anti-Goldwater liberals. The nature of the act certainly suggests in a quite emphatic manner that the perpetrators were not conscientious conservatives or Goldwater adherents, whether Democrat or Republican. They would not destroy a sign advertising their own cause. If it were unconcerned vandals it seems unlikely that they would strike three times and in the same place in one week.

Why and how I can be accused of hypocrisy is beyond my conception. I accused the liberals of hypocrisy because they state ideas but do not necessarily carry them out. I listed the reasons why I believe their statements to be hypocritical. Mr. Harrison did not list the reasons for accusing me of being hypocritical. If his letter was meant to list them I could not discern where in the letter this was stated.

Webster defines a hypocrite to be "one who feigns to be other than he is." I have never in my writings, political or otherwise, stated any ideas in which I did not firmly believe and practice. For two years I was on the staff and the editor for one year of the only Young Republican monthly newspaper in the state (SCOPE — written and published by the St. Norbert College YGOP). My writings are open to be checked. I have never pretended to be anything else than a conservative Republican and the record will uphold this statement. I believe in the cause of the conservative movement and accept the responsibilities and duties that go with it. I will not be a preacher and then refuse to act in a manner befitting my beliefs. Therefore I question not only Mr. Harrison but anyone to classify me a hypocrite.

I most certainly do not appreciate being accused of slinging mud. I believe too greatly in the value of conscientious and responsible journalism to stoop to such levels. I was relating a situation and expressing my personal viewpoint. I factualized my charges and gave the basis for my conclusions. If this is mud slinging then what is Governor Pat Brown's (Dem.-Calif.) charges of Fascism at the Republican Convention? These charges were dutifully printed by the liberal press. Was this slinging mud?

I have no fear, as Mr. Harrison insinuates, of a political situation as long as the people have the right to freely express their opinions and draw their own conclusions. Fear is a sign of weakness and weakness is not a characteristic of the conservative cause.

I wish to thank the Post-Crescent for allowing me to express my opinions. I also wish to thank those who have written to me, written the Post-Crescent, including Mr. Harrison, and talked to me personally concerning the situation in question. An interested and concerned electorate is a sure sign that the machinery of Democracy is functioning.

Civil Strife on Cyprus Pits NATO Allies Against Each Other

BY RICHARD F. NEWCOMB
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The Cyprus pot is boiling again.

For the moment, the United Nations has kept the lid on but nobody has yet figured out how to turn off the stove.

The trouble is simple—both Greeks and Turks live on Cyprus, third largest island in the Mediterranean, and they can't get along. The danger is far deeper — the free world is torn by loyalties to both Greece and Turkey, while the Communists engage in their old occupation of stirring any pot of trouble.

On Cyprus itself, the Greeks are far stronger. In a population of half a million they outnumber the Turks four to one, and they are well-armed. But Turkey is only 40 miles away from the north coast of Cyprus, and the Turks are much better armed than is Greece. Turkey has half a million men under arms, is equipped with American Super-Sabre jets and naval vessels, and has a strong base at Iskenderun, just across the water from Cyprus. Athens is 500 miles from Cyprus, and the Greek armed forces total less than 200,000.

When Turks on Cyprus cry out for help, Turkey is inclined to rush to the aid of her beleaguered sons. That's what happened this time.

PRESIDENT IS GREEK

Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus, is a Greek, with natural sympathies for the island's Greek majority. Some say he turned his head when the Greek Cypriote military leaders decided to wipe out the Turkish enclave of villages high in the northwest corner of Cyprus. In any event, the Greek Cypriotes launched a major offensive and quickly overran several Turk villages.

Premier Ismet Inonu of Turkey was not the man to take that. From its mainland bases, the Turkish air force swarmed down on Cyprus and for three days bombed, rocketed and gunned the Greek Cypriote forces. Greek gunboats off the north coast were hit, and one was destroyed. In the villages, women, old men and children were caught between warring factions. United Nations forces, rushed up to restore order and rescue refugees, were also bracketed by fire. Several newsmen were wounded in the battling.

Makarios called on the Soviet Union, Syria and the United Arab Republic for help. Khrushchev immediately declared that Makarios and the Greek Cypriotes had "the sympathies of the Soviet people and government" and called upon the Turks to "stop military operations against the Republic of Cyprus."

In Athens, the Greek government showed signs of annoyance with Makarios over the Greek Cypriote offensive.

The United Nations Security Council went into emergency sessions in New York and the diplomatic machinery of pacification began to move into action. Fighting gradually ceased and Premier Inonu announced that Turkish jet flights over Cyprus would cease. Another Cyprus "incident" simmered down.

TURKS HAVE VETO

Still the problem remained. Under the treaty of 1960, in which Britain granted Cyprus independence, the Turkish Cypriotes were granted veto rights over matters of foreign affairs and finances. This has galled the Greek Cypriote majority, and Archbishop Makarios has been pressing for elimination of the veto power.

The Turks refuse to give up the veto, their only guaranty of some equality, and they also refuse to quit Cyprus. Proposals for partitioning the island into Greek and Turkish sections are not acceptable to either side. At present, nearly every city and village has its Greek section and its Turkish section. They are easily discerned by the barricades separating them, and behind the barricades are the guns.

For the moment, the guns are still. No one believes they will be still for long.

Looking Backward

Crescent Pursues Draft Quota

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Aug. 13, 1864.

Compared with Massachusetts, the case of the draft quota in Wisconsin is 1,005 more men from each Congressional District. The quota in each Wisconsin district is 3,172 men; the quota in each Massachusetts district 2,167.

Again, the average quotas of Congressional districts in New York are 2,881; in Massachusetts and New Hampshire 2,167, in Pennsylvania 2,571.

That is the way Wisconsin is treated by the infamous Administration of Lincoln, Seward and Stanton. That is its fair dealing and honesty!

Upon the same basis we must furnish 1,746 more men than New York, 6,030 more than Massachusetts and New Hampshire, and 3,606 more than Pennsylvania!

The iniquity is so apparent that even the Shoddyite office-holders of the rotten dynasty will hardly care to defend it.

Our advice is brief and practical. Let the city and town authorities report to the Provost Marshal at Green Bay the name of every person who is liable to the draft, but take no steps whatever to obtain the erasure of those who have removed away, enlisted, died or passed the age.

And let every person sure of exemption defer proving it until after the draft.

The draft is for double the quota and no more and if the result of the iniquitous course pursued toward the people should be to draft a very large number of exempts, non-residents and men now in the army, and thereby prevent the obtaining of the quota assigned, it would be just in every sense of the word because we would even then furnish all or more than our equitable proportion.

Let every man ponder upon this exposition of the utterly dishonest character of the Administration, and be prepared to do his whole duty at the polls in November next.

25 YEARS AGO

Saturday, Aug. 19, 1939.

The Rev. Theodore Ohlrogge was to be installed the next day as pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Seymour by his father, the Rev. F. H. Ohlrogge, former pastor. The Rev. F. R. Ohlrogge, Marion, brother of the new Seymour pastor, was to preach the sermon

Young Richard Aylward was the star performer at North Shore Golf Club's annual children's Swim Day. He won the boys' 20-yard free style race in two classes, first place in the novelty steamboat race and placed second in diving

W. S. Smith, Appleton, was elected president of the Manawa High School Alumni Association at one of the largest reunions ever held. Stewart Craig, Manawa, was named vice president, and the Misses Dorothy Vaughan and Velda Handrich, also from Manawa, were named secretary and treasurer, respectively.

10 YEARS AGO

Saturday, Aug. 21, 1954.

Mrs. Bruce Steinacker was elected president of the Merry Maiden's Homemakers Club of Greenville. Other officers elected were Mrs. Arlyn Asmus, vice president, and Mrs. Harold Kaphingst, secretary-treasurer. Outgoing officers included Mrs. Howard Palmback, president, Mrs. Merlin Techlin, and Mrs. Clifford Broehm.

Miss Bernice Beversdorf was to reign as the Harvest Festival queen in Clintonville during the coming weekend. She was crowned in public ceremonies by 1953 queen, Miss Mary Ebert. Miss Beversdorf's court of honor included Carol Wolf, Nadene Tietz, Betty Braun, Karen Horkey, Shirley Rice and Shirley Prahl.

Mrs. Richard Lornson and Mrs. Mary E. Geiger were cochairmen of the family reunion of the descendants of Mr. and Mrs. John Geiger. More than 70 persons attended the event in Brillion Park. Jean Marie Thissen presented accordion music on the program.

Times Don't Change

More than 3,500 years ago, a writer in what is now Iraq inscribed this proverb on a clay tablet. "You can have a lord, you can have a king, but the man to fear is the tax collector."

Ford Study Seeking To Modernize State Legislative Process

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Wyngaard

MADISON—A quiet project that is in large part financed through a grant of one of the national foundations has as its goal the improvement of the auxiliary machinery in the Wisconsin legislative process.

The so-called Ford Foundation committee now at work under the chairmanship of Sen. John Potter of Wood County hopes to be able to blueprint for the 1965 legislative sessions a scheme for recognizing the immensely increased burden of legislative work through the provision of staff assistance for key committees.

If the project is successful, it will be an honorable climax to the brief legislative career of Sen. Potter, a thoughtful lawyer who has decided against running for a new term and will retire to his private affairs at the end of the year.

Some advances have already been made, although almost without public notice, in the housekeeping arrangements of the State Legislature in the last few years. Office quarters have been enlarged. House leaders of both parties now have staff assistants, in recognition of their broader scope of work and duty.

MORE NEEDED

But these are conveniences and comforts which while useful and welcome do not affect the substantive performance of the legislature.

In the leisurely pace of the legislative branch half a century ago, or even 25 years ago, it was possible to organize a principal legislative committee and to expect it to give a reasonably good account of itself in appraising appropriation requests, and more important, in assessing the performance of agencies under past expenditure allowances.

But the size of the state government considered in fiscal terms alone has increased about eight fold during the last 30 years. The mechanism of appraisal and decision has changed not at all.

The other day a staff advisor of the Potter committee recited the case of the Marinette Extension Center of the University of Wisconsin as an example of an expenditure commitment that was inadequately examined in the first instance. The state is now committed to the operation of a fairly high cost enterprise for the indefinite future although a more careful assessment has shown it to be a mistake.

It was probably unfortunate, in terms of the Marinette community, that the example was used. For there are many other case histories in point. The legislature simply is not equipped to make the verification studies that are implied in the system, are doubtless expected by the taxpayers paying the bills, and in fact are sincerely desired by most of the responsible members of the legislature.

* *

THE NEED

A careful observer of capitol affairs is aware of the perplexity of the earnest member of the legislature in these situations.

Even the naked eye of the legislator's constituent can perceive at a glance that it is absurd to expect a representative engaged in many other affairs, even the most acute, to penetrate the details of a multi-million dollar expenditure program in what in the most favorable circumstances is a few hours of perfunctory discussion — most of it spent in listening to the anxious and skilled exposition of the men who want the money.

A minimum requirement for the improvement of the legislature to the standard most citizens probably believe already exists is a reliable, independent staff of investigators and technical advisors for the legislative Finance Committee. Several other key committees in each house can make equal claims for such advisory machinery. The alternative will be slip-shod management of public finance and the transformation of the legislative process into an automatic ratification of the professional bureaucracy.

Supporter of Parnell Happy for Heffernan

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I, along with practically every other member of the Outagamie Bar Association, supported Judge Andrew Parnell for appointment to the Supreme Court Bench. As a matter of fact, months ago, without the knowledge or consent of Judge Parnell, I wrote several letters suggesting that he would be a good choice and selection for appointment to the Federal District Court for the Western District of Wisconsin. Governor Reynolds has now announced the appointment of Nathan Heffernan to fill the Supreme Court of Wisconsin vacancy.

The handling of the announcement of this appointment by your paper suggested that the governor had appointed a "crony," friend and political ally. From this, the public might infer that there might be some lack of ability on the part of Mr. Heffernan.

I am acquainted with Mr. Heffernan and had contact with him while he was city attorney for the City of Sheboygan. I wish to state that he is a very competent and able lawyer and will be an excellent justice of the Wisconsin Supreme Court. While many of us are disappointed that Judge Parnell did not get this appointment, it is only fair to recognize that a competent lawyer has received the appointment.

The tasks confronting a governor are not always simple or easy. There were many competent persons recommended for this appointment and only one available position. The governor has made a choice and I am certain that he did this in a thoughtful and conscientious way. I am just happy that the problem of the selection was his and not mine

Monsters Next Door The Sweetest People

TV Family of Lovable Ghouls Mothered By Former Glamour Girl Yvonne DeCarlo

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON
Guest Columnist

HOLLYWOOD — Television fans who remember Yvonne de Carlo from her movie glamor girl days will be blinking this fall at the sight of gorgeous Yvonne as a spook in a fright wig.

Jingo

What's more — and for added eyebrow lifting — she says she's Miss Delighted about switching from girl to ghoul.

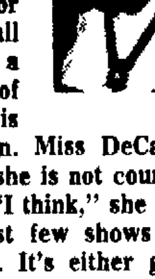
But this is to report that Yvonne herself is doing a bit of eye blinking about her vampire role as the wife of a Frankenstein-like monster in The Munsters, a new CBS-TV series. The series is described — are you ready for this?—as "a domestic comedy featuring a family of loveable monsters."

The "loveable monsters" include Yvonne with floor-length wig: hubby Fred Gwynne who looks like the monster; their 8-year-old son, with pointed ears, and grandpa, who imagines he is Dracula.

The Munsters, we are to believe, are monsters in appearances only. Otherwise they are nice, normal people.

That's why even Yvonne is blinking. She has been blinking since she was briefed on her role by the show's creators, Bob Mosher and Joe Connelly.

"They told me," Yvonne reported, "that except for my appearance I should play the part as sweet as Donna Reed plays her TV character. Can you imagine that?"



Whether audiences can or will imagine all this about a family of spooks is the problem. Miss DeCarlo Yvonne says she is not counting on anything. "I think," she said, "that the first few shows will tell the story. It's either going to be a big hit, like the Beverly Hillbillies, or the season's biggest and quickest flop."

The Hillbillies, obviously started a trend toward off-beat family comedy on television. And the sale to another network of TV rights to the famed Charles Addams cartoon characters cued "The Munsters."

Inherited Frankenstein

As rival ghouls to ABC-TV's The Addams Family, The Munsters will have, says Yvonne, the legal protection of Revue Productions. Revue inherited from the old Universal studio TV rights to the images of the Frankenstein monster, Bela Lugosi's Dracula and the Wolf Man.

"And even the Wolf Man." Yvonne giggled, "turns up in the series as my ex-boy friend. Can you imagine that?"

As satire on old movie monsters as well as on contemporary TV domestic comedy, The Munsters will not be bothered, at least, by nice neighbors next door.

"Our neighbors," Yvonne reported, "are scared to death of us."

Mrs. Johnson Asks Viewers In for Chat

BY TV SCOUT

7-7:30 — Channel 11 — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, who is rarely at home these days, takes time off from the campaign trail for a lively chat with ABC News Commentator Howard K. Smith. In A Conversation With the First Lady we see her in the Oval Room at the White House, spelling her concept of the role of a President's wife; reviewing some of her predecessors as First ladies of the land, and talking about her children.

* * *

6:30-7 — Channel 11 — It's a ladies day in Washington. On The Woman's Touch in Politics, Lisa Howard interviews prominent women in the nation's capitol, including Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey and Mrs. Eugene McCarthy, wives of the Minnesota Democratic senators.

* * *

6:30 - 7:30 — Channel 2 — The session on The Lucy-Desi Comedy Hour is an old one, but a funny one. The Ricardos' guests are Edie Adams and her late husband, Ernie Kovacs, who try to boost Ricky's flagging show - business fortunes. (Repeat)

* * *

6:30 - 7:30 — Channel 4 - 5 — The Lieutenant, in and among a couple of so-so plots, trucks in a splendid scene. It features Charles McGraw as a veteran Marine sergeant telling his men what combat is like as they prepare to leave for what may be action. Lee Erwin wrote the story, basing it on the alert which scrambled the Marines during the Cuban crisis. (Repeat)

John Persol, Henry Hank Battle to Draw

Brisk Bout Ends Weekly TV Fights From New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Persol and Henry Hank, a couple of pretty fair fighters as fighters go these days, fought to a draw in an exciting 10-rounder Friday night in the last of the weekly television bouts at Madison Square Garden.

A crowd of 5,219 enjoyed the brisk bout that rang down the New York curtain on the free television fights that have been put on by a razor blade company for 20 straight years. The longest continuous network television show winds up on Dec. 11 in Cleveland.

After the Cleveland program, the Garden will try and run fights about twice a month as a money-making business without the television subsidy.

The two judges, Tony Rossi and Tony Castellano, each called it even, five rounds for each. Referee Art Mercante had it for Hank 6-4 rounds. The AP scorecard had Persol in front, 5-4-1. Boxing writers had it 8-7 for Persol with four calling it even. It was a real tossup fight.

There were no knockdowns but the two belted each other freely in a see-saw contest. Persol was cut over the left eye and Hank was sliced on the right cheekbone. A last round spurt by Persol enabled him to gain the draw with a 3-1 underdog.

Persol weighed 172½ pounds to Hank's 174.

The fight had a tragic ending for Hank. Max Handler, 57, his Detroit adviser, became ill during the second round. He collapsed and died in the office of the Garden's physician.

Not long ago Hank's former manager, Harry (Scotty) Baxer, died after a heart attack in Scotland.

Orlich and 2 Others Break 100 in a Row

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — Three men broke 100 straight birds Friday in a Class AA preliminary 16-yard event as the 65th Grand American Trapshoot got under way.

Hitting all 100 targets in the top division were Dan Orlich of Reno, Nev.; George Snellenberger of Angora, Ind., and Herb Bush of Canton, Ill.

In Class A preliminary shooting, Emory Ray Moyer, Germantown, Ohio; Jim Colombo, Omaha, Neb.; Jim Rexroat, Hoisington, Kan., and Harold Jankofsky, Avon Lake, Ohio, all broke 99 of 100.

Narrow Wins Are Feature of Play In Tavern Loop

KAUKAUNA — Powers' Pub scored its sixth win against two losses in Tavern League play Wednesday to strengthen its hold on second place. Powers edged edged Jerry and Dee's 7-6. The losers have a 1-7 record.

Powers scored two runs in the first inning on three errors and two singles, added two in the second on a homer by Bert Lopas, double by Rocky Kuchelmeister, a single and error. Two more runs scored in the fourth on two singles and a double by Roy Wenzel and one scored in the sixth on an error and two singles.

The losers scored one in the second on a single and an error, two in the fifth on four singles, one in the sixth on three singles and two in the seventh on two singles and an error.

Peters' Bar scored two runs in the first inning and then held on for a 2-1 win over Rich's Bar. The winners have a 4-2 record and the losers are 3-5. A double by Cliff Hinkens, two errors and two singles gave Peters' its first inning runs.

The losers scored in the fourth on a triple by Frank Giordana and a single. Tug Gerow, winning hurler, permitted four hits while Marvin Schuler, loser, allowed five safeties, three in the first frame.

Wealthy Golfer Wills $5,600 to Buddies for Last Round of Drinks

LONDON (AP) — Harold Magnus James, wealthy businessman and golfing fan, left $5,600 for a last round of drinks for his links' buddies in his will published Friday.

James, who died in May, was a 13-handicap golfer and habitually played on about 20 courses every year.

He also made a $2,800 bequest to his favorite golf club at Bognor. His estate is valued at $895,000.

Schulenburg, Dostal Post 38s

C. L. Dostal and Jon Schulenburg share the honors with 38s in Men's Twilight golf league action at the Riverview Country Club recently. Schulenburg carded a pair of 38s for a 76.

Prize winners were Dostal, low putts and closest to the pin on the eighth hole; Bernie Heselton, low putts and Dick Mahoney, closest to the pin on the second hole.

The Spanagel team retained the league lead with 709 points. Rae is second with 613, followed by Jaeckels with 610.

G and L Scores 12-10 Triumph

KAUKAUNA — Giddings and Lewis downed Rexall Drug, 12-10, Thursday night for its secon win in six starts in Class B Softball League play.

The winners' Jerry Looker tripled and doubled.

The losers' Tom Berghuis and Ken Kavanaugh doubled. Jerry Looker was winning hurler and Gene Fahrbach the loser.

Wins Handicap Test

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — Grace Bachhuber of Mayville, Wis., broke 93 of 100 targets in winning a ladies handicap event as the 65th Grand American Trapshoot opened Friday.

She fired in one of four handicap events, in which entrants are placed anywhere from 18 to 27 yards back according to their skill.

Mayor Asks Power Company for Bid On Plant Purchase

Menasha Explores Possibility Of Abandoning Municipal Utility

MENASHA — Mayor John Klein has invited the Wisconsin - Michigan Power Co. to make a proposal to the City of Menasha toward purchase of the municipally owned electric utility plant or propose any other method the company might make in furnishing power, according to information received today.

However, the mayor, in a letter to company officials, indicated he and the Menasha Board of Public Works are merely investigating avenues open to them for the benefit of the city, as a request for information with no commitment.

The Wisconsin - Michigan Power Co began studies immediately to prepare a proposal. A complete proposal is expected to take several weeks.

It was also learned the firm has made a verbal proposal to provide the city with electrical energy within the generating plant in lieu of purchase of a standby generator plant by the city.

The offer was to provide power in case the city lost electrical service for lighting within the plant for operation of auxiliary equipment to start the main power systems for the city. A written proposal is pending. The offer is the same rate under which power is sold to other commercial customers, 75 cents a month minimum plus the cost of the power used.

The firm indicated it can begin service within 24 hours after its proposal is accepted. The offer is for a six-months period without obligation either to the city or the power company and would be for emergency power to the generating plant only, not for outside use or sale. Having such a power source available would give the municipal utility more time to look into the purchase of a second hand emergency generator for standby use.

The city currently is accepting bids on an emergency standby generator. Interest in the generator came after the city suffered two power failures within a period of one week. Bids are returnable on or before Aug. 31.

The utility recently completed and put into operation a $1.2 million addition to the existing steam generating plant, increasing the power output by 15,000 Kilowatts.

One Hurt in Auto Crash In Neenah

NEENAH—One person was injured and several hundred dollars in damage caused in a two-car accident here at 4:30 p.m. Friday.

Adeline Kobinsky, 1194 Winchester Road, Neenah, was taken to Jensen Clinic for treatment of undertermined injuries by Neenah police squad. She was a passenger in a car operated by Bryan Kobinsky, 19, of the same address.

Police said the accident occurred when Kobinsky drove from W. Doty Street into the path of a car driven by Gary L. Balthazor, 18, 631 S. Lake St., Neenah, who was traveling north on S. Commercial Street.

Minor damage was caused Friday when a car driven by Matthew A. Meyer, 19, 3560 Hillcrest Road, Pewaukee, struck a parked car about 8 p.m. in the Valley In parking lot.

Meyer told police he was backing from the lot when his motor quit. He said the car rolled forward and hit the parked auto, which is owned by Donald R. Angerer, 749 Reed St., Neenah.

Girl Awakens After 86 Days in Coma

LONDON (AP) — "Sleeping Beauty" is awake after 86 days.

The first sounds she heard were sobs of joy from her family and attending nurses.

Mary Tiernan, 9, emerged from a coma Friday after almost three months.

"That's my daddy," the child said, blinking her eyes.

Mary has been in deep sleep in the Manchester Royal Infirmary since she was injured in a Cheshire train wreck that killed three persons. To doctors, she became "sleeping beauty."

Junior Red Cross representatives to the Green Lake encampment, scheduled next week, attended a picnic at the Clifford Fahrbach home, 193 W. Fourth St., Menasha. As a part of the Northeast Wisconsin American Red Cross, there were 22 present from Sheboygan, Green Bay, Oshkosh, Neenah and Menasha. Neenah High delegates presented a slide demonstration and talk following the supper. Left to right above are Anne Shockley, Richard Breaker and Richard Damrow. Below the hostess, Mrs. Fahrbach, waits for John Martin, Menasha, to slice the watermelon. John will attend the encampment as a counselor this year, having been active in Junior Red Cross when he attended Menasha High.

Village School Will Register New Pupils

LITTLE CHUTE—Students not yet registered for attendance this fall in grades kindergarten through eight at the State Graded School may register from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. Wednesday at the school office.

This includes those moving into the district or transferring from other schools. Those enrolling in grades one to eight must bring report cards and kindergarten enrollees must furnish birth certificates. A child must have reached his fifth birthday by Oct. 1, 1964 to be eligible to attend.

The school will open at 9 a.m. Sept. 1 for registration, orientation, receiving textbooks and beginning assignments. Classes will be dismissed early on that day. Youngsters will begin regular class periods on Sept. 2 with thee exception of kindergarten children who will have 1-hour sessions for the first week.

This reduced class period enables the youngsters to gradually grow accustomed to school attendance. Book fee for kindergarten has been set at $2 while grades one through eighth will pay $5.

Tuesday Will be Busy For Neenah Teachers

NEENAH — It will be a busy day for the 46 teachers new to the Neenah Joint School District Tuesday, starting with a "getting - to - know - you" breakfast at 7:15 a.m. in Valley Inn. It is sponsored by the Neenah Retail Division of the Chamber of Commerice.

After a brief orientation by Dr. Donald Scott, superintendent of schools, and James Clark, business manager, the teachers will meet with professional helpers at Taft School, Neenah High School and Neenah Junior High School.

Professional helpers at the elementary level will be: Miss Beverly Schilling, kindergarten; Mrs. Emma Rohm, first grade; Miss Phyllis Furman, second grade; Miss Margaret Sambs, third grade; Theodore Jarosh, fourth grade; Donald Feit and John Hovie, fifth grade, and Lloyd Thede and Lorn Graunke, sixth grade.

The balance of the day will include meeting school principals, having X-rays at Theda Clark Hospital and working in classrooms.

New junior high school teachers will meet at 9.30 a.m. Tuesday in Neenah Junior High School to go over matters with Principal Alvin Long and professional helpers: Miss Thora Anderson, Miss Kathleen Marr, Mrs. Helen Schultz, C. Edmund Hein, Armon Chappelle, Joseph Minskey, Edward Mueller, Mrs. Marion Mueller and Mrs. Barbara Peterson.

Principal H. O. Borgen and department heads will spend Tuesday morning with the new teachers. William Dunwiddie, social studies; Malvin Schneider, English; Louis Precourt, industrial arts; Ole Jorgensen, physical education; Kenneth Peterson, business; Lennard Krause, physics; John Gundlach, biology; Miss Helen Kirkus, home economics and Miss Helen Hughes, mathematics, will be the professional helpers to the 15 new staff members.

Special teachers will meet with Miss Mary Willits, elementary supervisor, in her office, 410 S. Commercial St.

Building meetings will be held Wednesday, and each teacher, both new and returning, will work most of the day in classrooms.

The formal program for orientation will be at 8 a.m. Thursday in the Neenah High School auditorium, with Dr. Donald Scott presiding. There will be welcomes from Mayor Carl Loehning of Neenah; George Verhage, president of the board of education, and the Supt. of Schools Dr. Scott.

Neenah teachers will join with Kimberly, Kaukauna and Menasha teachers to hear Kenneth Haagensen and James E. Dornoff, keynoters for the joint orientation program, in the Menasha High School auditorium.

Dr. John Cody, assistant professor of education, Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind., will speak on "Dropouts" and Dr. Darold Treffert, acting superintendent of Winnebago State Hospital, Winnebago, will discuss "Recognizing and Helping the Troubled Child," at a special meeting at 1:15 p.m. Thursday, in the Neenah High School auditorium, with H. O. Borgen presiding.

Friday will be devoted to winding up classroom work with only one formal meeting called. At 1:15 p.m., Ole Jorgensen will meet with the elementary men teachers who will take part in the intramural and after-school physical education program. Meeting place is the south gym physical education office.

Classes will open at all schools Aug. 31. Elementary classes will begin at 8:30 a.m., junior high school classes at 8:10 a.m. and Neenah High School classes, at 8 a.m.

Set Orientation Program For New Jr. High Students

NEENAH — All seventh grade students and those eighth grade boys and girls who were not in attendance at Neenah Junior High School during the 1963-64 school year will be guests at an orientation program at 9 a.m., Monday.

Principal Alvin Long urges that every student attend. "This program will include the passing out of class schedules, a few instructions about how to get around in the junior high school building, an opportunity to ask questions and a brief run-through of the opening day of school's class schedule," explains Long. The program is scheduled to last approximately two and one-half hours.

Three specific times have been set for eighth grade students who are in their second year at Neenah Junior High School to pick up their schedules.

1:30 to 3:30 p.m., Tuesday.

10 to 11:30 a.m., Wednesday.

10 to 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 to 3.30 p.m., Friday.

Those students who cannot pick up their schedules on the designated days are to get them in the school office the morning school opens, Aug. 31.

School will start at 8:10 a.m. and dismissed is at 3:30 p.m. for Neenah Junior High School students.

County Users Face Loss of Services Of Public Libraries

Appleton and Kaukauna Send Fee Letter to Non-Resident Patrons

Outagamie County residents face the loss of free use of the Appleton and Kaukauna public libraries Jan. 1 as the result of a county board decision last November to cut off appropriations to the libraries after 1964.

In a joint letter mailed this week to non-resident patrons and city and county officials, the presidents of two library boards of trustees state the libraries will have no alternative to charging non-resident fees to out-of-city users beginning Jan. 1. unless the county board can be persuaded to work towards an equitable sharing of costs.

The letter urges recipients to contact their supervisors if it is your belief that adequate support of libraries is a proper obligation of Outagamie County.

The letter is signed by David Bailin, president of the Appleton board, and Cleon J. Egan, president of the Kaukauna board.

Service Has Been Free

Both libraries have extended their services free of charge to individual borrowers and to public and parochial schools in Outagamie County.

A chart accompanying the letter shows that 16 per cent of the books circulated in 1963 by the Appleton Public Library went to county residents living outside Appleton, and 16 per cent of all registered borrowers live outside the city, but only 5 per cent of the library's support in 1963 came from the county board appropriation.

Some 13.4 per cent of all books circulated in 1963 by the Kaukauna Public Library went to county residents living outside the city, and 25.9 per cent of all registered borrowers live outside Kaukauna, but only 2.9 per cent of the library's support came from the county appropriation, the chart showed.

Appleton and Kaukauna have no wish to deny the benefits of library service to their patrons who live outside these city boundaries." the letter states. "However, common sense dictates that an institution should not serve its non-resident users for less than it receives from its own taxpayers."

Followed Study

Alvin Fulcer, Kimberly, county board chairman, said the resolution to end the library appropriation in 1964 was passed after studies by the board's health, education and institutions committee and a special committee which included library personnel, because "the county could not find a realistic way to run any kind of program."

The board decided library service was more a local or municipal problem than a county problem, Fulcer said, and also had a problem in allocating funds among the eight public libraries in the county. The allocation was through a formula based on the libraries' non-resident circulation.

Fulcer said he did not know of any further discussion coming up before the board on the question. Some kind of agreement between individual towns and the cities to support library services might be possible, he said, adding that the State Library Commission believes library service should be municipally financed in some way and not by a charge against individuals.

Bailin, president of the Appleton board, said the letter was sent jointly by the Appleton and Kaukauna boards because the libraries are the two largest recipients of county funds, serve the largest number of patrons and were hit hardest by the county decision. This year the Appleton library is receiving $7.350 from the county and the Kaukauna library $1,102.50, out of a total county appropriation of $10,500.

Individual towns have shown no interest as yet in a contract arrangement with the libraries, Bailin said, "but I don't believe they really understood what the situation was until this letter came out."

The two library boards have not decided what the fee for non-resident patrons will be. The Appleton library presently has a family fee of $5 per year for non-residents of the county, covering parents and children under 18. The Kaukauna library has no non-resident fee.

Cuts Off Schools

In addition to the effect on individual library users, the board's decision also means the cutting off of extension services to county public and parochial schools Jan. 1. These services are provided primarily by the Appleton library, which last year provided 9.858 books, having a circulation of 35,901, to the county schools. This was almost half of the library's extension work.

Mrs. F. Stansbury Young, Appleton library board member for nine years and former president, said the problem has been under discussion with the county board for a number of years, with the library board asking increases in the appripriation to meet the county's share of costs. The county funds about cover the cost of the service to schools, she said, and last year the library board proposed that it provide only the service that was paid for. Instead the county board decided to cut off all funds, she noted.

"We want the people of Outagamie County to understand that we are not cutting off services. They (the county board) are." Mrs. Young said. "We have not been able to do many things we should do to extend service within the city because we cannot afford it, and we do not feel we can go on carrying the county without their paying for the service."

Seh felt the decision would have a particularly severe effect on the county schools. "The city schools have been improving their libraries, but I don't believe the county schools have been able to do so." Mrs. Young said. "This is going to be a terrible thing to them not to have the books."

The 1963 Annual report of the Appleton Public Library shows a total circulation of 398.906. with circulation to county residents totaling 64.124. Some 2.573 of the 20.434 registered borrowers were county residents.

The Kaukauna library had a circulation in 1963 of 101.014 in the city and 115.154 in the county. It has 3.861 registered borrowers in Kaukauna and 1.353 in Outagamie County.

Two Menasha Auto Mishaps Cause $200 Damage; No Injuries

MENASHA — Less than $200 in property damage was caused in two auto accidents here during the past 24 hours. There were no injuries.

Minor damage resulted Friday when a car driven by Donna M. Zuleger, 344 Fifth St., Neenah, struck the rear of an auto driven by Andrew M Montcur, 67, of Arbor, Mich., at the intersection of Ahnaip, Naymut and Keyes streets.

Approximately $100 in damages was caused this morning when a car driven by Shirley A. Kees, 224 Jane St., Neenah, struck a car operated by Gordan M. Eckrich, 19, 383 Naymut St., Menasha.

School Opening Scheduled Sept. 8 At Wrightstown

WRIGHTSTOWN — Classes for both Wrightstown elementary and high school pupils will begin Sept. 8, according to Leo Bronkalla, community school superintendent.

Approximately 280 students will move into the new Wrightstown High School. One teacher has been hired for the library staff at the high school which will bring the total to 16 on the faculty.

Classes for the elementary students will be held in the old high school. About 230 pupils are expected to enroll during the first day. The faculty for the grade school has eight teachers.

A full day of classes is scheduled, with registration and books slated to be issued for both the high school and grade school.

Students attending the elementary school will be able to participate in the new hot lunch program, according to school officials. This will be the first year for the program.

Wrightstown teachers will report for an inservice meeting Sept. 1, according to Bronkalla.

Moves to Save Air Service To Clintonville

Sen. Nelson Urges Study of Nationwide Airline Needs

In an apparent attempt to preserve airline service to Clintonville and Ashland, Sen Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., has urged a "thorough" review of nationwide airline service.

The senator added existing airline service should be continued pending the review. He made his remarks in a statement released by his office in Washington this week.

Both Clintonville and Ashland are fighting proposals by North Central Airlines to discontinue their service.

Nelson joined with Minnesota Sens. Humphrey and McCarthy in co-sponsoring a state resaolution which would direct the Senate Commerce Committee "to make a thorough review of the needs for airline service with a view to setting a progressive national policy and recommending any necessary legislation."

Minimum Boardings

Nelson's move followed a long series of letters to the Civil Aeronautics Board urging service be maintained at Ashland and Clintonville.

CAB has a rule an airport must generate at least five passengers a day to merit continued service. Clintonville has fallen below the five passengers a day ruling. Ashland had slightly under five passengers per day last year but boardings are up 12 per cent this year.

Meanwhile the CAB has been studying a number of other smaller airports in Wisconsin and other states, considering whether they should be consolidated with nearby airports.

Rely On Service

Clintonville is the original home of North Central Airlines and its industry, including FWD Corp., has come to rely on air express service for shipment of essential industrial parts and materials, Nelson said. Loss of air service would seriously affect Clintonville's outlook for expanding employement and industrial growth, he added.

Recently, Clintonville hired a consultant to help romote its air service. The city also has been subsidizing passengers fares to maintain the five-a-day minimum boardings rule.

Plans have been made to have practice teachers from Dr. Martin Luther College, New Ulm, Minn., do some supervised practice teaching during the year.

Witnesses Against Changes in Boards

Testify at Appleton Hearing Counties Have 'No Problems,' But Proposals May Bring Some

BY TOM RICHARDS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A legislative council committee on county board representation heard testimony Thursday afternoon from representatives of counties which "have no problems."

The regional public hearing in the Outagamie County Courthouse was one of several being held throughout the state to gather proposals to possibly incorporate in a bill to be placed before the legislature at its next session.

During the afternoon segment of the hearing, Carl E Sturm, Manawa, chairman of the Waupaca County Board, and Morris Rymer, Oconto Falls, chairman of the Oconto County Board, were among those who said they did not want the present county boards setup changed

No Problems

Earlier in the day, spokesmen for the Leagues of Women Voters of Outagamie, Winnebago and Fond du Lac counties had called for equitable representation according to population and smaller county boards.

Similar advice was given by several others who appeared at the morning session.

However, Sturm said "we don't have any problems" on his 52-member board.

He asked the committee to hold hearings similar to Friday's in every county in the state and to place any proposal decided on a referendum before the voters.

But committee chairman State Sen. Walter Hollander, Rosendale, said funds allocated the than one or two more hearings. The first was held in Waukesha County, and the next is to be at 10 a.m. Sept. 18 in Eau Claire.

Rymer, too, said there are no problems in his county, "but," he added, "we will have problems if we have to send you a proposal by November. You're going to have trouble if you try to get 41 supervisors who represent 25,000 persons to approve a resolution eliminating half of the board."

Kenneth Corbett, executive secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, gave a brief history of the chamber's work in trying to improve the county boards setup, and gave these conclusions:

—The present county boards are making a sincere and serious effort to carry out the mandates of the state as well as their responsibilities to their own counties.

County boards are too large and unwieldy.

—Due to the rapid growth of county business, there is a crying need for a delegation of management responsibilities to a management department.

"Big Business"

"Today the responsibilities of county government are big business," Corbett said. "The responsibilities assigned to the board by the state, and the demands of its local people are too important and too exacting to be handled by a loosely-knit organization of committees.

"The equitable control of spending $10 million or more each year needs a more efficient type of government than we now have."

Jerome Martin, Whiteian, a Manitowoc County supervisor, said, "speaking for myself, and not the board," said "many people" like the county's present 53-member board.

He also called for a referendum. "I don't want the supreme court deciding this thing," he said.

NFO Leaders Satisfied So Far But Would Like to Do Better

Plan Further Livestock Holding Action in Valley Area Next Week

Fox Valley National Farmers Organization (NFO) members said they are satisfied with their campaign so far to keep livestock off the market, but they apparently want to do better.

The NFO began its nationwide livestock withholding action Wednesday afternoon, and activities of the farm organization has been increasing in Wisconsin ever since.

Members tallied results and made plans for next week's actions at a meeting near Shiocton Friday night.

They agreed to be at R. Kuehne Sons, livestock buyer's in Seymour Monday to try to convince farmers not to sell cattle.

In addition, according to Outagamie NFO Chairman Robert Matz, township chairman, with six to eight assistants, will canvass Outagamie and Waupaca counties' non-members during the weekend.

Matz said Greenville was considered a key township. He said another meeting is scheduled for next Friday at New Nightingale near Shiocton.

There was extensive NFO activity Friday at the Quality Packing Plant at New London. Thursday there had been only three representatives of the organization at the plant.

But Friday was another story. Members were in and out of the plant yard until it closed at noon.

As many as 10 members at a time were at the plant, in addition to two members checking incoming trucks and stock.

Major NFO action in Outagamie County was not in the New London area, however. About 75 members were at the Armour receiving station at Dale, Matz said.

Receipts at the station were far below normal, with only 15 calves and one cow brought in by the noon closing. Matz said many farmers bringing cattle to be shipped returned home with the animals, and joined the holding action.

Object of the holding action is to get all plants and stock buyers to sign a master contract with the organization asking minimum prices of $22.75 ner hundred weight for top hogs, $32.45 for top beef and $29.45 for sheep. These prices are about comparable to the 1958 price level.

One Wisconsin meat packing firm did not purchase livestock Friday and several others said they may not have livestock next week because of the National Farmers Organization withholding action.

The Peters Packing Co. of Chippewa Falls said there were about 75 NFO members at the plant and no purchases were made. The firm, which also has a plant in Eau Claire, said a meeting with NFO spokesmen had been scheduled for Wednesday.

The company spokesman indicated the meeting would take up the withholding action rather than a contract with NFO.

A spokesman for Wilson & Co., a major Milwaukee meat packer, said the firm was "no longer taking advance orders" from wholesalers. He also said the company had heard "through the grapevine that some other packers were closing down."

A spokesman for the Pritzlaff Wholesale Meat Co. of Milwaukee said the firm might soon "be sitting without merchandise." He said the price of hogs, sheep and cattle received in the Milwaukee stockyards had risen by one cent a pound Friday and the price of dressed beef had gone up two cents, a pound.

J C. Lovas of Lovas Wholesale Meats of Milwaukee predicted a 25 per cent increase in meat prices if the holding action continues for an extended period.

"We're in trouble," said Lovas. "This time it looks as though the farmer means to go through with it."

Everett Loomis, an NFO member living at rural Mondovi, said he was visited Friday by 80 other members who had heard he planned to ship 22 heifers to Freedom, Wis., for sale to dairymen. Loomis said at least 10 of the members stayed at his farm until 5 p.m.

"It was all a misunderstanding," said Loomis. He said he thought the holding action applied only to the sale of livestock to meat processors.

Practical Nurse Graduation

Assemblyman Recommends 5-Part Program for Technical Training

MENASHA — A 5-point program to improve the post high school technical and apprenticeship programs in the state was advised by David O. Martin, Neenah, third district assemblyman, Friday night when he spoke to the 28th graduating class of the Neenah- Menasha School of Practical Nursing in ceremonies at the Menasha High School auditorium.

He recommended:

1. "Post high school technical education should be taught in area technical schools located throughout the entire state. These schools would offer full time programs, including an associated degree, two year programs of technical level instruction approved by the state board of vocational and adult education." He pointed out that now eight schools in the state offer such a program and that consideration should be made for transferring credits from these schools to other schools of higher education

Costs, Aids

2 "The cost of the physical plant and maintenance service would become the responsibility of the entire vocational-technical geographic area Cost to municipalities within the area would be apportioned on the basis of their equalized valuation.

3 "Increased state aid for technical and apprenticeship programs would be necessary to insure a full and complete course of instruction.

4. "Changes in our high school curriculum should be considered to include more vocational and technical type courses for those students who choose to enter post high school area technical schools.
